

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

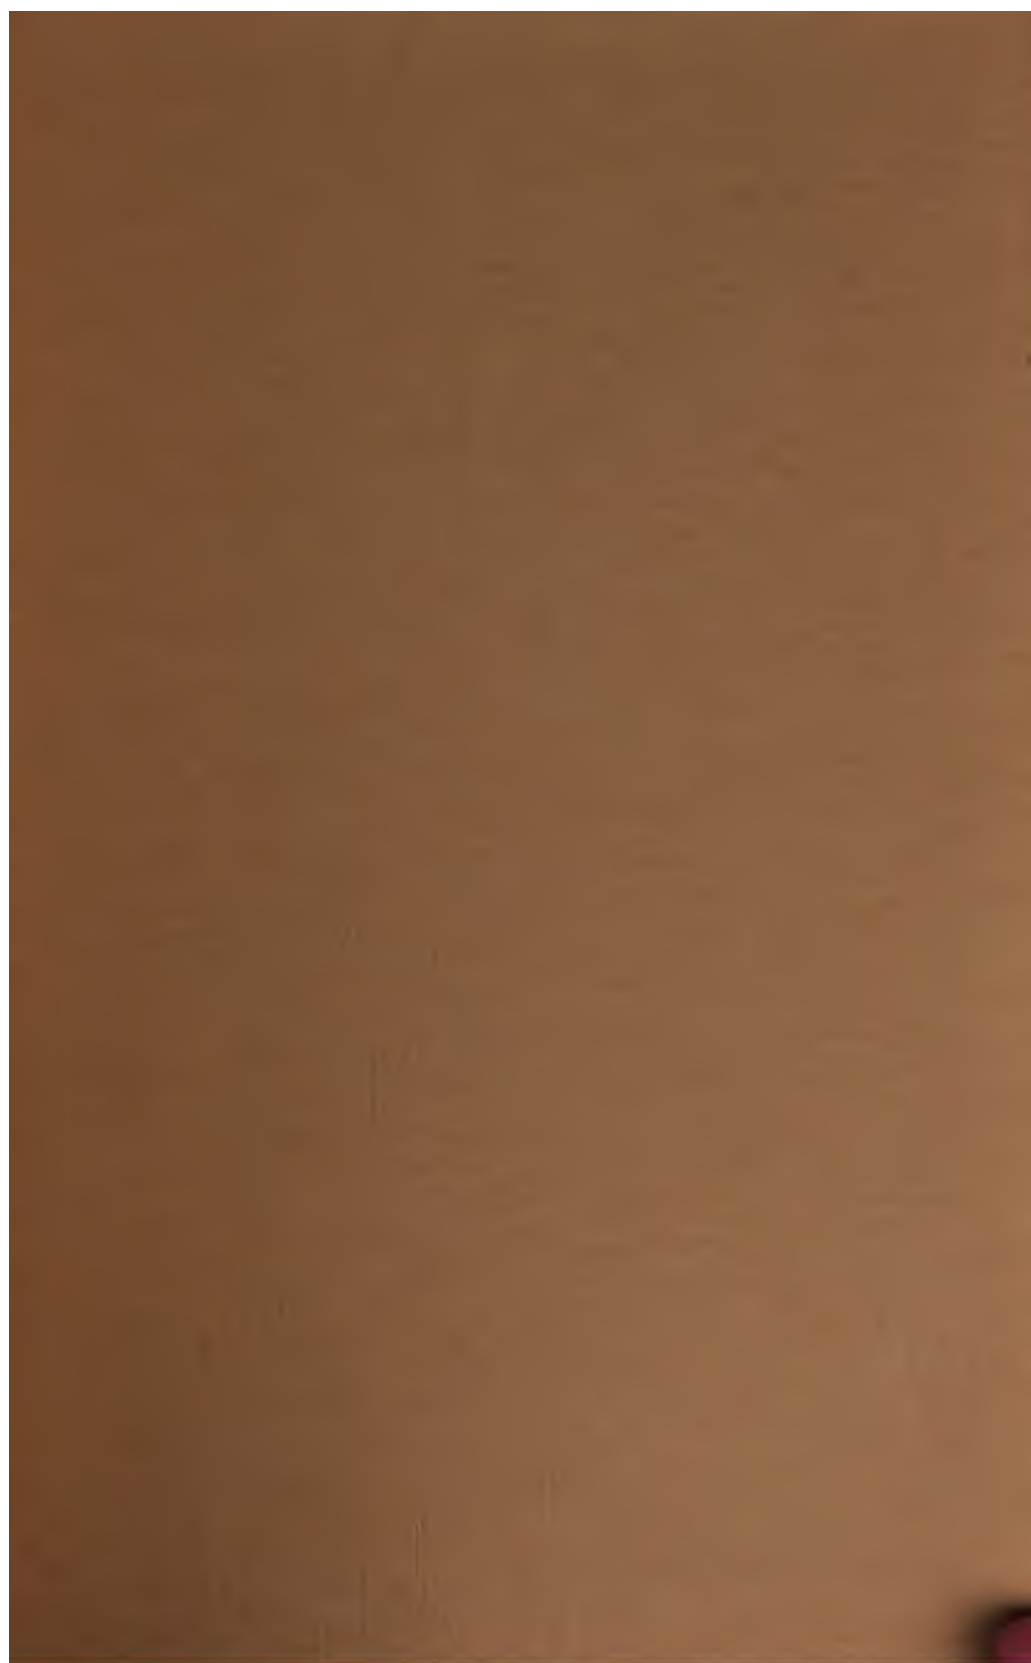

About Google Book Search

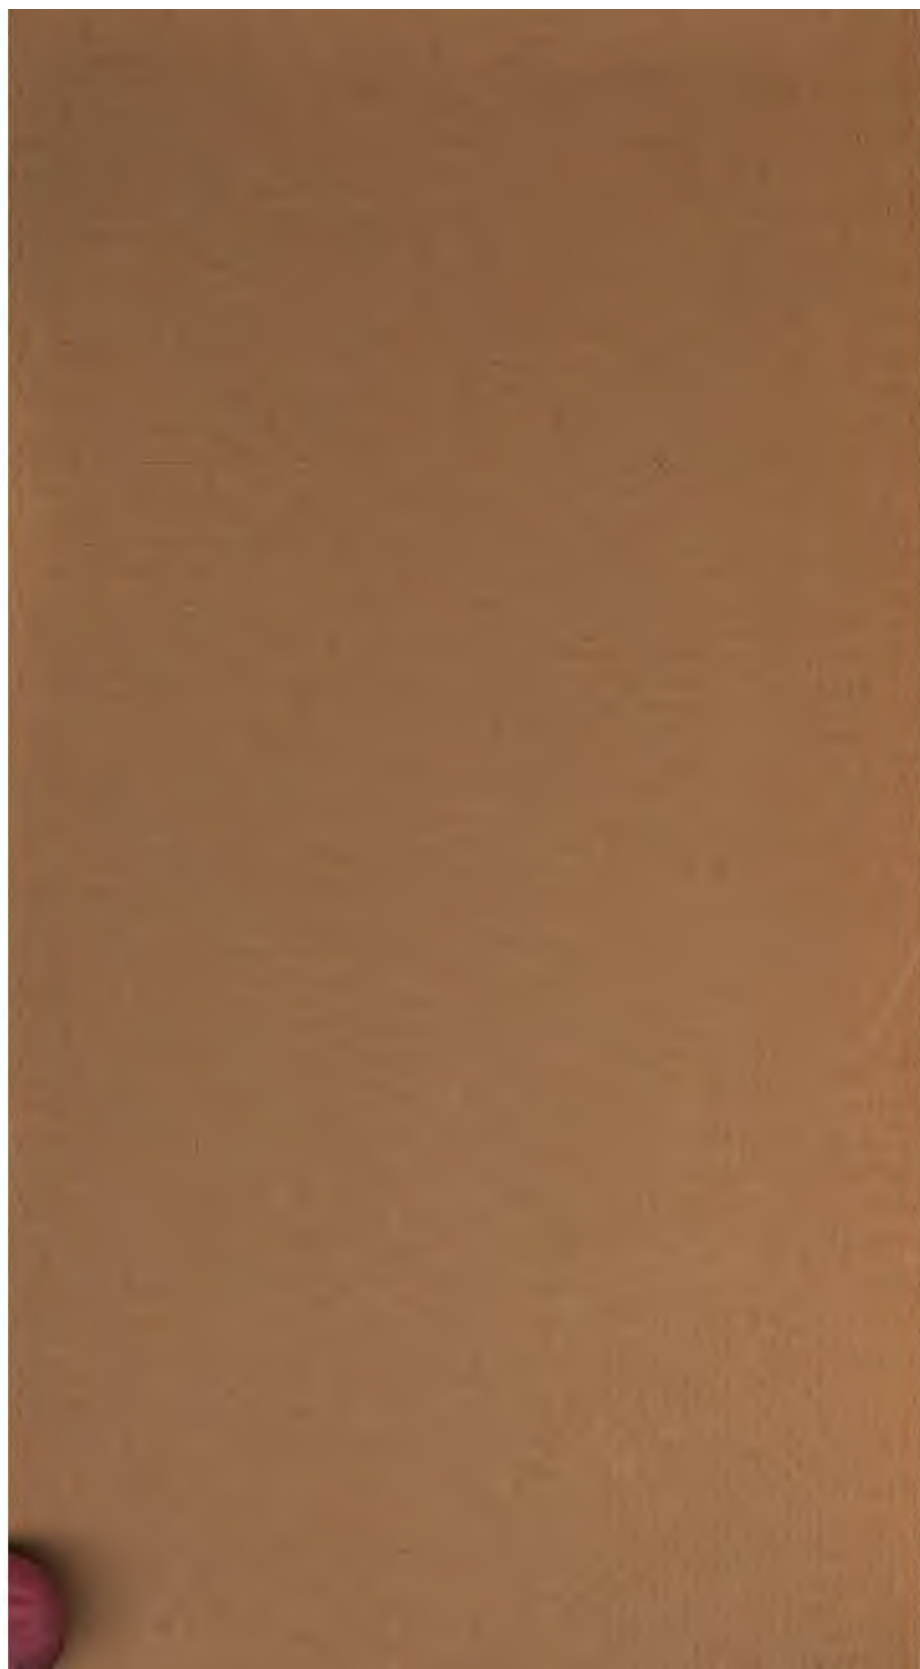

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. "No more beside the river,
On beauteous Norwich Plain,
By hallowed dust, 'mid early scenes,
Might she repose again;
But on the hills of Northfield,
Robed in imperial green,
Crowned with the love of loyal sons,
She sits, our peerless queen."

THOMAS HAWLEY CANFIELD.

Thomas H. Canfield, son of Samuel and Mary A. (Hawley) Canfield, was born in Arlington, Vt., March 29, 1822, and died suddenly in Lake Park, Minn., in January, 1897. He attended the schools of his town and finished his preparation for college at the Burr and Burton Seminary, Manchester, Vt.; was a student at the Troy, (N. Y.) Episcopal Institute. He entered the junior class of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., in September, 1839; but before the completion of his course, was obliged to give up his studies, owing to the death of his father.

He engaged in farming in Arlington until 1844, when he located in Williston, Vt., where he engaged in a general mercantile business until 1847. He then removed to Burlington, Vt., and became a member of the firm of Bradley & Canfield, who conducted extensive wholesale stores and ware-houses in Burlington and owned a line of boats running from New York to Montreal. He was interested in many enterprises; organized a telegraph company in 1847, and constructed the first line through from Montreal to Troy, N. Y., via Western Vermont, sending the first telegram, February 2, 1848; promoted and assisted in the construction of the railroad from Burlington to Bellows Falls, Vt., via Rutland, (now the Rutland R. R.) in 1849; in company with others built the Rutland, Washington, R. R. from Rutland, Vt., to Eagle Bridge, N. Y., the Ogdensburg and railways in New York and Pennsylvania; served as superintendent and president of the Rutland & Washington R. R., 1852-54. His company in the fifties operated a barge line from Burlington to Rouses Point in New York, thus competing with the Central Vermont R. R. The company also operated a line of steam boats from Ogdensburg, N. Y. through the Great Lakes.

In the fifties, he became acquainted with Edwin F. Johnson, "N. U.", '25, and through his influence, he became interested in the construction of a railroad across the continent by the "Northern Route;" and from this time on, he devoted his energies to the furtherance of the great project. In 1852, he built the road, now known as the Chicago & Northwestern, from Chicago to St. Paul and to Fond du Lac, Wis. During the Civil War, he was assistant general manager of transportation for the Government and had charge of the roads centering in Washington, D. C. He also assisted in recruiting and organizing the First Vermont Cavalry. After the war, he served for some years, as superintendent of the steamers on Lake Champlain.

He organized in 1866, a syndicate for the construction of the Northern Pacific R. R. of which his friend Edwin F. Johnson, '25, was chief engineer. The successful completion of this great railroad was due largely to the untiring effort of Mr. Canfield. He served as director of this road for several years; was president and director of the Lake Superior & Puget Sound Land Co. He made his home for many years at Lake Park, Minn., where he held extensive agricultural interests.

He was at first a Whig in politics and later a Republican and took an active part in the campaigns of his party, but refused to hold office. He was an active member of the Episcopal Church and attended every convention of the diocese for over forty years. He was one of the incorporators and trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute at Burlington in 1854, serving as its treasurer, 1854-92; took an active part in the erection of Bishop Hopkins Hall for young ladies. He also assisted in the erection of Trinity Chapel, Winoski and the Episcopal Church at Brainerd, Minn.; also furnished sites for churches in Moorehead and Lake Park, Minn, Bismark, N. D., and Kalama, Wash. He represented the diocese of Vermont at the General conventions of the Church held in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1856, in Richmond, Va., in 1859, in New York City in 1874, in Boston in 1877 and in Chicago, in 1886. He took an active interest in the University, serving as trustee from 1876 until 1884. A number of the alumni and past cadets were employed as engineers in his various enterprises.

He was twice married: first, in 1844, to Elizabeth Ann, only daughter of Eli Chittenden of Williston. She died in 1848. He was again married in 1860, to Caroline Amelia, daughter of Rev. John Hopkins Smith, first Episcopal Bishop of Vermont. Five children were born to them: Emily; John Henry Hopkins, born January 21, 1868, died in Lake Park, Minn., April 17, 1892; Marian; Flora; Thomas Hawley, born November 15, 1874, resides in Lake Park, Minn.

REV. CHARLES WESLEY EMERSON, M. D.

Charles W. Emerson, son of Thomas and Mary (Hewitt) Emerson, was born in Pittsfield, Vt., November 30, 1837, and died at Millis, Mass., November 30, 1908. His childhood was passed among the picturesque hills of his birthplace until 1845, when his parents moved to a neighboring hillside in Stockbridge, Vt. (near Rochester). He attended the schools of Stockbridge and received instruction from his father, a well known teacher and Rev. Augustus Wing, in the higher English, Scientific and Classical studies. He completed a course of Theology under Rev. Dr. Tyler of Brattleboro, Vt., preaching his first sermon at the age of nineteen.

He was ordained to the ministry by the Association of Congregational Ministers in Windham County, Vt., in 1858. He was pastor of churches in Halifax, Vt., in 1858-61; Brookfield, Vt., 1861-65; Northfield, Vt., 1865-68; First church, Fitchburg, Mass., 1868-73.

Dr. Emerson was a power in the ministry by reason of his moving eloquence, his keen spiritual discernment, his unflinching sympathy and his spirit of benevolence. His churches were crowded with eager listeners. He made hundreds of converts, raising church societies from a condition of decay to that of flourishing life. After twenty years of effort in this field of work, he was forced by failing health to abandon it. He then spent a few months in rest and travel in the British Isles.

Upon his return home, he entered the University of Pennsylvania and graduated M. D. in 1877. He subsequently added courses of Law and Oratory in the Boston University. He was appointed in 1877, lecturer of Vocal Physiology and Hygiene in the Boston University School of Oratory; and upon the death of its president, Professor Monroe, this department of the University was discontinued. Dr. Emerson perceived that a great work was still to be accomplished in the study of Oratory, so drawing about him a few friends, he opened a school of Oratory, named in honor of the late Professor Monroe—the Monroe Conservatory of Oratory. Later, at the request of the alumni, this name was changed to the Emerson College of Oratory. This little school grew so rapidly that during the next twenty years it repeatedly outgrew and extended its boundaries; and long before Dr. Emerson retired from public life, in 1902, it was recognized as the largest school of vocal expression in the world. Today Dr. Emerson's disciples are teaching in primary and secondary schools, state normal schools, colleges and universities throughout the United States and the British provinces.

Dr. Emerson was a broad scholar, a student of both ancient and modern philosophy, a bold and independent thinker. He drew students around him because he had found a philosophy in expression. He made it his mission to organize his discoveries so that life should take on a higher form by expressing itself rightly. He made the teaching of expression to the pupil one and the development of the character of the pupil one and the same. He aimed to lift every pupil to a higher plane of living. Evolution comes, he said, from expression; the race is what it is today because it has expressed itself. The great cathedrals, for example, while examples of the knowledge of art possessed by their builders, are also the means by which the race has lifted itself. Art must be looked at as the screws put under a building—a means of elevation.

Charles Molloy has said: "Dr. Emerson was much more than a teacher; he was a man of genius, over and above his technical character." The mark of genius and nobility was stamped in unmistakable characters upon his face and bearing. Meeting Dr. Emerson in person, one was at once struck by the sweet simplicity and the gentle dignity of his presence. One knew instinctively and beyond question that nothing mean or commonplace had any part in his life, and these characteristics were reflected in every word, action or attitude, wherever or on whatever occasion the man appeared. Whether on the platform, in the classroom, on the street or in the home, the serene poise of the man, the absolute freedom of any consciousness of self, suggested constantly that there was a life consecrated to some high calling. This same dignity of presence was a potent power of Dr. Emerson's eloquence, during the twenty years, when many Bostonians found his Saturday noon lecture the loftiest sermon of the week. His oratory was marked by those elements which constitute greatness, simplicity, ease, economy, force and authority. He was an active friend of the University, serving as trustee from 1893 until 1895.

He wrote many articles for the press of the country. His published works are: Evolution of Expression, four volumes, revised edition, 1905; Physical Culture, 1892; The Perfective Laws of Art, four volumes, 1890; Psycho Vox, 1894; Philosophy of Gesture, or Expressive Physical Culture, 1900.

He was married three times: first in April 1857 to Melvina A. Boutwell of Stockbridge, Vt., who died June 22, 1865; one child, Henry Ward, born January 17, 1861, died December 25, 1862. He was again married May 9, 1866 to Muriel C. Durant. He was married the third time September 5, 1888 to Susie J. Rogers, a native of Pleasant Mount, Pa., who survives him and resides in Millis, Mass.

MAJ.-GEN. OLIVER OTIS HOWARD, U. S. A., A. M., LL. D.

Oliver O. Howard, son of Rowland Bailey and Eliza (Otis) Howard, was born in Leeds, Me., November 8, 1830, and died in Burlington, Vt., October 26, 1909. He was prepared for college at Monmouth and Yarmouth, (Maine,) Academies and entered Bowdoin College, Maine, in 1846, graduating A. B. in 1850.

He entered the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1850, and graduated fourth in general standing in 1854; was promoted 2d lieutenant United States Ordnance department; was stationed at Watervliet Arsenal, N. Y., 1854-55; was in command Kennebec Arsenal, Me., 1855-56; was chief of ordnance on the staff of General Harney in the campaign against the Seminole Indians, 1856-57; instructor, Mathematics, West Point, 1857-61; resigned his commission in 1861, and was made colonel of the 3d Maine Volunteers, organized the regiment, and was assigned to McDowell's command in Virginia; commanded his brigade composed of the 3d, 4th and 5th Maine and 2d Vermont Regiments of Volunteers and took part in the first battle of Bull Run; was commissioned brigadier-general of volunteers, September 3, 1861, and commanded his brigade in all operations in the spring of 1862; was in command of the expedition of Rappahannock serving with much credit; then in McClellan's army in the battles of Yorktown, Williamsburg, and Fair Oaks; in this last battle he was twice wounded in his right arm which necessitated the amputation of the arm; was on leave two months, spending the time raising troops in Maine; commanded his brigade at the second battle of Bull Run; at the battle of Antietam, where General Sedgwick was wounded and the command of the 2d Division, 2d Corps, devolved upon him; commanded this division in the battle of Fredericksburg; was in command of the 2d Corps at different times during the winter of 1862-63; was promoted major-general of volunteers, November 29, 1862.

In April 1863, he was assigned to the command of the 11th Army Corps which he commanded in the battle of Chancellorsville, and at the battle of Gettysburg, where he distinguished himself, especially in command of the first day's fight. The credit of selecting the field for the battle belongs to him. His corps was assigned to the Army of the Cumberland and he commanded it in the battle of Wauhatchie, October 28, 1863; in the battles of Missionary Ridge, December 24 and 25, 1863, and to the relief of Nashville. He was assigned to the command of the 4th Army Corps and took part in and performed conspicuous duty in all the battles of the succeeding Atlanta campaign. After the battle of Atlanta, July 22, 1864, he was placed in command of the Army of the Tennessee, and for his conspicuous gallantry at the battle of Ezra Church, July 28, 1864 in which he commanded alone, was brevetted a major-general in the regular army, March 13, 1865. In the Sherman's famous "March to the Sea" through Georgia and the Carolinas, he commanded the right wing (The Army of the Tennessee) of Sherman's Army, participating in many battles and the final surrender of General Johnston's Army. For his gallant capture of Fort McAllister in the taking of Savannah, Ga. December 21, 1864, General Howard was made a brigadier-general in the Regular Army. On May 12, 1865, he was assigned to the War Department in Washington and placed in command of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, which position he held for seven years, meeting with great success, in caring for the negroes from slavery to freedom.

He was sent in 1872 by General Grant to make peace with the Chiricahua Apaches and settle difficulties with other tribes in Arizona and New Mexico. This important work was accomplished without arms. He was in command of the Department of the Columbia, August 1874-80, bringing two Indian Wars the Nez Perce War in 1877, and the Piute and Bannock in 1878 to a successful conclusion after much hard fighting. He also, in the spring of 1879, conquered the "Sheep-Eaters" Indians, and placed them at work in Vancouver and the children in school. In December, 1880, he was detailed as superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point, which position he held two years, meeting with marked success.

He was in command of the Department of the Platt, with headquarters in Omaha, 1882-86; was promoted major-general U. S. A. March 19, 1886; was in command of the Military Division of the Pacific, 1886-88; Military Division of the Atlantic and the Department of the East, 1889-94; retired from active military service, November 8, 1894. In 1898, during the Spanish-American War, he was constantly in the field in the interest of the Y. M. C. A., visiting the camps in Chickamauga, Mobile, Ala., Tampa, Fla., and Santiago, Cuba.

He took an active interest in educational matters, founded Howard University at Washington, D. C.; was instrumental as commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau in establishing Hampton's Institute, Atlanta University, Fisk University at Nashville, Tenn., Straight University and many others for the colored race. He was trustee of several of these at various times.

His last important educational work was the founding of the Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland Gap, Tenn. in 1895; he raised large sums of money for that institution and was managing director and president of the board at the time of his death. In 1897, at the request of General Dodge, his old comrade and associate of the Civil War, he visited "N. U." and investigated the needs of the University. He raised the money to buy much needed land to increase the area for drill purposes. He was elected a trustee in 1895, and served as such until his death, taking an active interest in the welfare of the University.

He spent the winter of 1894-95 in Portland, Oregon, writing parts of his autobiography. He wrote the following works: Donald's School Days; Henry in the War; Nez Percés Joseph or Nez Percés in Peace and War, published by Lee and Shepard, Boston; Agénor de Gasparin a biographical sketch partly a translation, Putnam Sons, New York; General Taylor in the Great Com-

He was married October 12, 1852, to Abba Morrill Hale of Danville, who survives him. Three children were born to them: two sons, George and Fred, dying in infancy and Walter Jospeh, born May 9, 1862, and died May 9, 1881.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SOPER.

George W. Soper, son of John Lawrence and Eliza Jane (Vial) Soper, was born in South Dorset, Vt., June 28, 1834, and died in Randolph, Vt., March 12, 1888.

In 1855, he removed to Northfield, Vt., where he engaged in monumental business with E. N. Howe for several years. He was a Republican in politics and held several positions; served as postmaster of Northfield, 1867-70; United States railway postal clerk, St. Albans, Vt. to Boston, Mass., 1870-November, 1887. He was active in securing the removal of the University from Norwich to Northfield; served as a trustee, 1883-88. He was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal church and DeWitt Lodge, F. and A. M. of Northfield.

He was married December 21, 1857, to Ellen Eliza Bradford of Northfield, who died in 1869; no children.

JAMES CARY BARREL THAYER.

James C. B. Thayer, son of Dr. Samuel White and Ruth (Packard) Thayer, was born in Braintree, Vt., August 16, 1824, and died in Northfield, Vt., June 18, 1897. In 1829, his parents removed to Thetford, Vt., where he passed his boyhood days and attended the district schools and the Thetford Academy.

Determining upon a mercantile career, he went to Woodstock, Vt., in April, 1840, and worked for a few months in the clothing store of Dunbar & Munger. In the fall of the same year, he removed to Northfield and clerked for George B. Pierce in his general store until 1848, when he went to Montpelier and held a similar position for a few months with Erastus Hubbard. In the fall of 1848, he returned to Northfield and clerked for a short time for Hoel H. Camp, and later in the same year business partnership with Mr. Camp in a general mercantile business. In 1844 this partnership was dissolved and he then engaged in the clothing and tailoring business until 1860. He took an active part in organizing the North-first Savings Bank in 1864 and in that year was elected director and its treasurer which position he retained until his death.

He took great interest in the University, served as treasurer, June 30, 1875-June 15, 1897, trustee 1865-1887. He was a Republican in politics; an active member of the Episcopal Church of Northfield; member of the DeWitt Clinton Lodge, F. and A. M. and its treasurer many years; a member of the higher bodies of Masonry in Montpelier.

He was twice married: first, January 7, 1836 to Martha Jane, daughter of John Ambrose Pratt of Winooski, Vt. Four children were born to them: John Ambrose Pratt born December 5, 1836, and died while an infant; Ellen Maria born March 5, 1838, now Mrs. C. D. Williams of Burlington, Vt.; Alice Cornelia born August 5, 1839, who married Professor William Moser Rensselaer, N. Y. Vt. Harry Bates, -N. Y. 1877, born August 17, 1856. Mrs. Taylor died May 12, 1869. He was again married June 27, 1871 to West Fairlee, Vt. to Mrs. Lucenia Moss Gregory, Hutchinson, who died November 7, 1901; no children.

BRIG.-GEN. STEPHEN THOMAS.

Stephen Thomas, son of John and Rebecca Batchelor Thomas, was born in Bethel, Vt., December 6, 1809, and died in Montpelier, Vt., December 18, 1903. In 1813, his father died and he was soon forced to make his own way in the world. He attended school for some time in Thetford, and in 1827 was apprenticed to a woolen manufacturer.

He worked at his trade in Thetford, Strafford and West Fairlee, Vt., for some time and then started in the manufacture of woolen goods in Hartland, Vt. In a short time his factory was burned. He then worked in Thetford and located in West Fairlee, where he made his home until 1870, when he removed to Montpelier. On the breaking out of the Civil War, he took an active part in the support of the Union. At the special session of the Legislature called by Governor Fairbanks in April, 1861, he advocated the raising by Vermont of one million dollars for war purposes, and due largely to his fiery zeal, the measure was voted.

He was commissioned colonel of the 8th Vermont Infantry, November 12, 1861. He served with distinction in the Department of the Gulf, until 1864, when he was ordered North. He served under Sheridan in the Shenandoah Valley; was conspicuous for bravery in the battles of Winchester, Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek. He was especially commended in "general orders," for his services in the battle of Winchester, September 19, 1864, when he charged the enemy with the 8th Vermont and 12th Connecticut regiments, under his command and on his own responsibility. He was awarded a "Medal of Honor" by Congress July 25, 1892, for "distinguished services in a hand to hand encounter" at Cedar Creek, Va., October 19, 1864; was commissioned brigadier-general of volunteers, February 1, 1865, and served until August 24, 1865, when he was mustered out of service.

He was one of the leading members of the Democratic Party in Vermont until 1861, when he joined the Republican Party. He held many positions of trust; represented West Fairlee in the House of Representatives, 1838, 1839, 1845, 1846, 1860 and 1861; State senator from Orange County, 1848 and 1849; delegate to the State Constitutional Convention of 1843 and 1850; register of probate for the district of Bradford, 1842-1846, and judge, 1847-49; was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention in 1848-1852, 1856 and 1860; was lieutenant governor of the State, 1867 and 1868; United States pension agent for Vermont, with headquarters in Montpelier, Vt., 1870-77.

He was connected with several business enterprises; was president of the United States Clothes Pin Co. of Montpelier, also engaged in the jobbing of lumber, and house finishing materials; was president of the North Haverhill Granite Co. He was a member of the G. A. R.; The Camp of Sons of Veterans of Montpelier, was named in his honor, "Stephen Thomas Camp." He was a personal friend of Captain Partridge and Gen. T. B. Ransom and took great interest in the University, serving as trustee from August 18, 1852 until June 17, 1869.

He was married to Ann Peabody of Reading, Vt., who died in West Fairlee, January 8, 1877. Two children were born to them: Hartop Percell "N. U." '54 (q. v.) and Amanda Thomas, born in West Fairlee, Vt., married Luther Newcomb, died October 18, 1902.

JUDGE WHEELLOCK GRAVES VEAZEY, A. B., LL.D.

Wheelock G. Veazey, son of Jonathan and Annie (Stevens) Veazey, was born in Brentwood, Rockingham County, N. H., December 5, 1835, and died in Washington, D. C., March 22, 1898. He was judge advocate-general of the National G. A. R., in 1887 and 1888, commander-in-chief in 1890. He took an active interest in educational matters, served as trustee of Dartmouth College, 1880-91; was trustee of "N. U.," 1878-84.

He was married June 22, 1861, to Julia A. Beard of Nashua, N. H., who survives him, with two children.

HON. EDMUND WESTON, A. M.

Hon. Edmund Weston.

Edmund Weston, son of Abner and Huldah (Washburn) Weston, was born in Randolph, Vt., February 18, 1799, and died there July 14, 1870. He prepared for college at the Orange County Grammar School and graduated A. B. from the University of Vermont in 1821; received the degree of A. M. in course in 1836.

He studied law with United States Senator Dudley Chase and William Nutting, Esq., and was admitted to the bar in December, 1824. He practiced his profession in Randolph, Vt., and at Montpelier for many years. He was a Whig in politics and later a Republican. He held several offices in line with his profession and on two occasions declined the nomination for governor of Vermont, when such nominations meant elections. His tastes were those of a student, and his practice was in his more mature years exclusively devoted to cases of last resort before the highest court of his State and equity pleading.

In 1835-37, and in 1842 he was state's attorney for Orange Co., and in 1845 and 1846 judge of probate, at a period in the history of Vermont and

New York, when litigation over land tenures and descent was of the highest importance growing out of the controversy between the two states, one jurisdiction over boundary territory. His home was the center of scholarship and his acquaintance and influence was sought by the leading men in Vermont affairs. He was deeply interested in educational matters; served as trustee of the University, 1853-67. He was a member of the Episcopal church, and prominent in the Masonic Lodge.

He was married three times: first, January 8, 1824, to Sarah, daughter of Maj. Gen. Joseph Edson, United States marshal for Vermont. She died November 20, 1851. Three children were born to them: Edmund, Jr., "N. U.," '48 (q. v.); Sarah Olivia, born August 27, 1837, married Mr. F. A. Aiken, died May 25, 1890; Mary Elizabeth, born March 29, 1839, married Mr. Howard Van Dyke, resides in Washington, D. C. with her sons Edmund W. and Harry W. Van Dyke. There were no children by the second or third marriages.

REV. HOMER WHITE, A. B., LL.B., S. T. D.

Homer White, son of George and Electa (Cushman) White, was born in Weathersfield, Vt., March 9, 1837. He prepared for college at the Black River Academy, Ludlow, Vt., and at the Mt. Washington Collegiate Institute, New York city; graduated A. B. from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., in 1861 and LL.B. from University of the City of New York in 1862; received the degree of S. T. D. from Griswold College, Iowa in 1892; trustee of "N. U." from 1898 to date.

He learned the printers' trade in Newbury, Vt., in 1854 and worked in New York city, Ogdensburg, N. Y., Toronto, Canada, Milwaukee, Wis., and Springfield, Vt.; began the study of law with Josiah Q. Hawkins, Esq. of Felchville, Vt. in 1856 and after graduating from the law school in 1862 was admitted to the bar in New York City, but has never practiced the profession. He taught school in Taycheedah, Wis., in 1866, in Kenosha, Wis., 1866-67, and in Windham, Vt., 1868-69. He began the study of Theology for the Episcopal Ministry in 1867, and was ordained deacon at Windsor, Vt., June 13, 1869 and priest by Bishop Bissell in 1870; was rector of the church in Enosburg Falls, Vt., and built the St. Matthews Church at that place, 1869-81; at Randolph, Vt., 1881-86; Northfield, Vt., 1886-93; returned to the Randolph Church in 1893, where he remained until 1902, when he retired from the active ministry.

Rev. Homer White.

He is a member of Phoenix Lodge, No. 28, F. and A. M., Haswell Council, No. 6, R. & S. M., Randolph, Vt. Aside from sermons and lectures, his literary work consists of four novels: The Captive Boy, The Norwich Cadets, The Captive Girl, The Path of Honor, a poem, The Vermont Volunteer and many short stories and poems for various occasions; also a History of the Church in Randolph and a brief history of Norwich University.

He has been married twice: first, at Detroit, Mich., November 10, 1864 to Catherine Frances Corhein. One child was born of this marriage, Georgia, now residing in Randolph. He was married the second time in Enosburg Falls, Vt., April 15, 1880 to Martha Eunice Cramton. His residence is Randolph, Vt.

HON. TRUMAN CHITTENDEN.

Truman Chittenden, fourth and youngest son of Hon. Thomas Chittenden, the first governor of Vermont, and Elizabeth (Meigs) Chittenden, was born in Salisbury, Conn., August 3, 1770, and died in Williston, Vt., February 1, 1853. In 1773, his father moved to Williston, Vt.

At an early age, he became prominent in the political affairs of the State, being a Whig in politics. He was a member of the Governor's Council from October, 1815 until October, 1828; represented Williston in the House of Representatives, four years; was a candidate for lieutenant-governor in 1834, and for governor in 1835, being defeated by Silas H. Jennison (q. v.). He served for seven years as judge of the county court and for eleven years as judge of probate and was for thirty years, justice of the peace. He also held many town offices.

He engaged extensively in farming and in various business enterprises in Williston, until his death. He was elected trustee of the Vermont State Bank in 1808, serving several years. He took great interest in educational matters; was a member of the Corporation of the University of Vermont from 1813 until 1839. He was a personal friend of Capt. Alden Partridge and served as trustee of "N. U." from August 28, 1835, until September 7, 1843.

He married Lucy Jones, a native of Claremont, N. H. Thirteen children were born to them: Beulah, married Giles T. Chittenden; Giles; Harry; Anson; Miranda; Martin; Elijah; Jonas Galusha; Lucy Maria, married Col. Fred Fletcher; Pamela, married Luther Bloagett; Beulah, married Col. Fred Fletcher; Jane, married William C. Whitman; Mary, married Thomas Jefferson Chittenden.

CHAPTER II.

SKETCHES OF PRESIDENTS, ACTING PRESIDENTS AND VICE-PRESIDENTS, 1866-1911.

COL. SAMUEL WALKER SHATTUCK, C. E., A. M., LL. D.

Samuel W. Shattuck, son of Col. Walter and Roxanna (Fletcher) Shattuck, was born in Groton, Mass., February 18, 1841. He prepared for college at the Lawrence Academy, Groton, and entered the University in September, 1858, graduating B. S., in 1860; was adjutant of the corps of cadets; member of the Θ X Fraternity; received from the University the degree of C. E. in 1871, A. M. in 1867, and LL. D. in 1907.

He was appointed instructor in Mathematics and Tactics soon after graduation and served until April, 1861, when he joined the famous 6th Massachusetts Regiment of which he was sergent-major, on its memorable trip to Washington. This regiment was the first to reach Washington after President Lincoln's first call for troops; and on its passage through Baltimore, four men were killed and thirty-six wounded, being the "first northern blood to crimson the soil of the South." He served with the regiment in Baltimore and Washington until August, 1861, when the regiment was mustered out of service. He returned to his position at the University in September, 1861. In the summer of 1862, he was appointed State drill master and served several months in drilling and instructing troops in Brattleboro, Vt.; was commissioned adjutant of the 8th Vermont Infantry in October, 1863; captain, Co. H, same regiment, November 24, 1864; was wounded at the battle of Cedar Creek, October 19, 1864; was mustered out of service, June 28, 1865. He served as adjutant of his brigade, September, 1864 to January, 1865; inspector, January, 1865 to June 28, 1865, when the regiment was mustered out. He was often called upon to make use of his engineering education; he laid out and superintended the construction of several field fortifications for large bodies of men.

He performed gallant service in a charge at the battle of Winchester, September 19, 1864. The Union troops, through lack of cartridges to return the fire, were being driven back and General Thomas, trustee, "N. U.," (q. v.) was ordered to support the line with his regiment, and the 12th Connecticut. We quote from Greely's American Conflict (Volume 2, page 609): "Colonel Thomas, 8th Vermont, ordered his men to charge at double quick with bayonet. In vain general officers shouted 'Halt', 'Lie down,' 'Wait for supports,' etc.; for, while some were still confused and vacillating, a staff officer from the right galloped in front and pointed with his saber to the woods which sheltered the enemy. At once, all dissent was silenced, all hesitation at an end; the whole center, as one man, swept forward, cheering, and plunged into the woods, meeting there Crook's corps, charging from the flank. All the Confederates who could still travel were by this time going or gone" This staff officer was Adjutant Shattuck, who led the right of his regiment. General Thomas gave the details of this charge to the compiler of this history in 1898, and paid glowing tributes to Captain Shattuck as a gallant officer. General Thomas stated that the movement was upon the Adjutant's initiative; that it was without orders, if not against orders; and that the Corps Commander tried to stop it. But Sheridan approved it, and that made it legal; it won, and that made it gallant and patriotic.

He also took a conspicuous part in the grand stand made by the gallant brigade commanded by Gen. Stephen Thomas against the forces of General Early, October 19, 1864, at Winchester. In the early morning, two divisions of the Confederate Army had gained a position to the left and rear of the

Col. Samuel Walker Shattuck.

8th Army Corps, when a simultaneous attack was made in front and flank. This corps was completely routed, losing over forty pieces of cannon, which were turned upon the Union army. As a desperate move to save the balance of the Army, General Thomas' brigade was ordered to protect the left flank. The 8th Vermont was on the left, and came immediately in contact with the enemy. It fought with such desperate valor and at such odds that in less than thirty minutes it had lost in dead and wounded more than half of its men; and out of sixteen officers, it had thirteen killed and wounded. Adjutant Shattuck had his horse killed and was wounded himself, but remained with the colors and the few men who were able to get back to the line, which had been formed by the 6th Corps.

In September, 1865, Captain Shattuck returned to the University as professor of Mathematics and Tactics; was acting president, December, 1865 to June, 1866; was vice-president and adjutant professor of Mathematics and Military Science, 1866-68. He was inspector-general of Vermont, 1867-68, with rank of colonel. In June, 1868, he was elected assistant professor of Mathematics and instructor in Tactics at the University of Illinois; was promoted professor, same subjects, in 1871; was acting president for six months in 1873; vice president two years and Dean of the Department of Mathematics, 1868-1908.

He was an efficient and popular professor, but as President Draper of the University states: "the time came when he could no longer fill two positions that were already great and steadily growing greater and when it was easier to find professors than comptrollers." He was business agent of the University from 1873 until 1905, when he was appointed comptroller, which position he still retains. This office has charge of all the details of the business management of the University and general supervision of its finances. When Colonel Shattuck went to the University in 1868, its attendance was 142 and its disbursements were $48,000. In the forty-two years of his service, the attendance has increased to 5,000 and its disbursements to $2,000,000.

He is a member of the G. A. R.; Loyal Legion; American Mathematical Society; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; National Geographic Society; Z X Fraternity; Union League Club; C. C. Country.

He was married August 14, 1866, to Adelaide Louisa White of Columbus, Ohio. Four children have been born to them: Charles White, born May 31, 1867, resides in Chicago, Ill.; Anna Fletcher, born December 7, 1868, married Prof. Arthur W. Palmer of the University of Illinois, resides in Urbana, Ill.; Edith Louise, born March 12, 1870, married Prof. James McLaven, University of Illinois, resides in Champaign, Ill.; Walter Francis White, born December 12, 1871, now professor of Architecture in the Chicago School of Architecture.

PRESIDENT THOMAS WOODRUFF WALKER, U. S. A., A. M.

Thomas W. Walker was born in New Albany, Ind., June 16, 1833, and died in Dr. Edwin E. Smith's private sanitarium, South Wilton, Conn., December 9, 1890. He entered the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. He served at Fort Defiance, New Mexico, 1857-60, being engaged in battle with the Indians, near that fort, May 30, and September 19, 1858. He took part in the Navajo expedition in this last year, being engaged in a skirmish with the Indians at Ranchos de les Arragones, New Mexico, October 10, 1858. He also served with his command against the Tuni-Cha, Navajo Indians in November, 1859; was actively engaged in scouting in 1860. In this last year, he accompanied his command to Texas, where he served for a short time. He was then on leave of absence until 1861.

On April 26, 1861, he was ordered to Cincinnati, Ohio, as mustering and disbursing officer, where he served until September 27. He then engaged in reorganizing his company at Fort Columbus, N. Y., September 30, 1861 to February 10, 1862. He served in the defence of Washington, D. C., February 10 to March 10, 1862; took part in the Virginia Peninsular campaign with the Army of the Potomac, from March to August, 1862, being engaged in the siege of Yorktown, April 5 to May 4, 1862. He took part in the advance on Hanover Court House in May, 1862; in the skirmish on the Chickahominy river, June 5, 1862; the battles of Gaines' Mills, June 27, 1862, Malvern Hill, July 1, 1862, Harrison's Landing, July 2, 1862. He served with his command in the Northern Virginia campaign from August to September, 1862, being engaged in the battle of Manassas, August 30, 1862. He served in the Maryland campaign, with the Army of the Potomac, from September to November, 1862, being engaged in the battles of Antietam, September 17, 1862, Snickers' Gap, Va., November 3, 1862. He served with his command on the march to Falmouth, Va., October to November, 1862; in the Rappahannock campaign, December, 1862 to January, 1863, being engaged in the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862.

He was on sick leave from January 27 to March 15, 1863; was on recruiting and mustering service in New York city, March 27 to July 30, 1863; was in the United States Army hospital at Annapolis, Md., from August to September, 1863; served as mustering and disbursing officer at Davenport, Iowa, February 17 to July 27, 1864. He was then awaiting orders until May 19, 1865; served as mustering officer, state of New Jersey, May 19 to September 8, 1865; was awaiting orders from September 8, 1865 until February 13, 1867, when he received permission to accept the presidency of "N. U.," under act of Congress of July 28, 1866. He was brevetted major, June 27, 1862, for "gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Gains' Mill, Va."

He assumed the duties of president of the University, March 4, 1867. He visited Boston, New York and other cities in the interest of the University and did much to increase the prosperity of the Institution. Owing to failing health, he was forced to resign the presidency in April, 1868. The University conferred upon him the degree of A.M. He located in Vineland, N. J., in 1868, where he made his home until 1883. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1874; practiced his profession in Vineland for several years. In 1883, his health again failing, he went to Europe, where he made his home until 1888, when he returned to this country. In 1889, he was removed to Dr. Smith's sanitarium in South Wilton, Conn., where he died. He was survived by a widow and a daughter.

PRESIDENT ROGER STRONG HOWARD, A. M., D. D.

Roger S. Howard, son of Abijah and Octavia (Bosworth) Howard, was born in Thetford, Vermont, July 20, 1807, and died in Greenfield, Mass., April 16, 1880. He graduated A. B. from Dartmouth College in 1829; received from his Alma Mater the degree of A. M. in 1832, and D. D. in 1868. He was principal of the Newburyport High School and Putnam's Free School, 1829-48; Bangor Girl's High School, 1850-56.

He studied for the Episcopal Ministry, and was ordained priest by Rt. Rev. George Burgess, Bishop of Maine in 1856; was rector of St. Stephen's Church, Portland, Maine, 1856-60; Trinity Church, Rutland, 1860-67; St. James' Church, Woodstock, Vt., 1867-69; the Church of the Reconciliation, Webster, Mass., 1873-79. He retired from the active ministry in 1879, and removed to Greenfield, where he made his home until his death, which came very suddenly from a severe attack of pneumonia.

He was elected president of the University, January 8, 1869, and assumed the duties in September. His heart was in his parish work, and greatly to the regret of the trustees and friends of the University, he resigned, November 27, 1871; served as trustee of "N. U." 1863-76. He did much to increase the confidence of the public in the Institution and to raise the standard of instruction.

The respect and affection in which Dr. Howard was held is shown by the following extracts from notices published at his death. "His wonderful success in everything that he undertook, while owing doubtless in great measure to his unflagging and indomitable perseverance, was also attributable in equal measure to his personal magnetism * * * He believed in Christian education * * * of the bold, vigorous and manly sort."—From the funeral address by the Rev. P. Vorhees Finch. "We earnestly desire to place on record our deep appreciation of his scholarly attainments, his heartfelt and ever ready sympathy, his pure and devoted life, and of the valuable and loving services which during a pastorate of seven years were faithfully rendered by him to his parish."—From the resolutions of the wardens and vestry of the Church of the Reconciliation, Webster, Mass. "His ministry has been one marked by peace, love, wisdom, labor and success."—From the annual address (1880) of Bishop Paddock, of Massachusetts.

He was twice married: first in 1831, to Martha Pike of Newburyport, Mass., who died some years later; one child, Sarah Boardman, born in September, 1834, married Hon. C. C. Conant of Greenfield, Mass., died in 1889. He was again married in 1860, to Charlotte P. Jewett of Portland, Maine, who died July 9, 1892; no children.

PRESIDENT MALCOLM DOUGLASS, A. M., S. T. D.

Malcolm Douglass, son of Maj. David Bates Douglass, U. S. A., and Ann Eliza (Ellicott) Douglass, was born in West Point, N. Y., July 19, 1825, and died of apoplexy in Wareham, Mass., September 25, 1887. He prepared for college in the schools of Brooklyn, N. Y., and entered Trinity College in 1842 graduating A. B. in 1846; received from his Alma Mater the degrees of A. M. in course in 1850, and S. T. D. in 1869, also A. M. from Hobart College in 1849.

He was ordained deacon in Trinity Church, Geneva, N. Y., July 3, 1849, and priest in St. Peters Church, Auburn, N. Y., May 26, 1850; was rector of Trinity Church, Seneca Falls, N. Y., 1850-52; Christ Church, Albion, N. Y., 1852-55; St. Paul's Church, Waterloo, N. Y., 1855-59. In 1859, he entered on a twelve year's rectorship at St. Paul's Church, Windsor, Vt. These were years of the most faithful and fruitful work, winning the deepest love of his people and the thorough respect and confidence of the whole diocese. Such was the regard held for him by his church that on the death of Bishop John H. Hopkins in 1868, he was the first choice of the clergy for his successor; but he would not allow his name to be presented. He was elected president of the University in 1871, and served until 1875; also held, during this time, the professorship of Intellectual Philosophy and Christian Ethics; was trustee of the University, 1863-77.

In 1875, he became rector of Christ Church, Andover, Mass., where he remained until 1883, being compelled to give up the charge owing to impaired health, spending his summers thereafter at his seaside cottage at East Wareham, Mass. He spent the winter of 1884-85 in North Carolina and partially recovered his health and in 1885 took temporary charge of Christ Church, Plymouth, Mass.; but in 1886 he was again obliged to give up his duties; and spent some time in visiting in western New York. In May, 1887, he went to England and visited his brother at Brighton. He returned in August to his summer home, apparently much benefitted and with renewed hopes of resuming his church work. On Sunday, September 25, he drove to the Church of the Good Shepherd at Wareham where, after reading the Psalm in opening the church service, he was obliged to retire to the vestry room, complaining of a strange sensation in the head. In a short time he passed away. He was distinguished for his charm of presence, his simple, dignified, gentle and modest demeanor; his absolute freedom from self-assertion; his warm interest in all who came under his charge. He was a member of 'J' I' Fraternity of Trinity College.

He was married in Geneva, N. Y., October 14, 1851, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Benjamin Hale, D. D., president of Hobart College. She

H.

PRESIDENT JOSIAH SWETT, A. M., D. D.

Josiah Swett, son of Josiah and Hannah (Healey) Swett, was born Claremont, N. H., August 14, 1814, and died in Highgate, Vt., January 1890; was buried in Burlington, Vt.

He prepared for college at the Chester, Vt., Academy and the Kimb. Union Academy, Meriden, N. H., and entered the University in 1834, as graduated, A. B., in 1837; was instructor in the English Department, 1836-3 received the degree of A. M. in course from "N. U." in 1840, and the honors degree of A. M. from Trinity in 1856.

He was principal of the Claremont, (N. H.) Academy, 1837-40. 1 February, 1840, he was elected professor of the Latin and Greek Languages at the University, which position he held until August, 1841. In the summer of this year, in company with his friend and former roommate at the University, General Alonzo Jackman, he began the publication of the Citizen Soldier, in Norwich, Vt. The enterprise did not prove a success and in the spring of 1841 they discontinued the paper, and in August they resigned their professorship at the University. They soon established the New England Seminary at Windsor, which they conducted until the fall of 1844, when they both returned to their former positions at the University. In August, 1845, he resigned his professorship and became principal of the Claremont Seminary which position he held until 1847.

In 1843, he began studying for the Episcopal ministry and on March 12, 1847, was ordained deacon by the Bishop of New Hampshire in the church at Claremont; and priest, by Bishop Hopkins of Vermont, September 15, 1847; was rector of the church in Bethel, Vt., 1847-65; was professor of Divinity in the Vermont Episcopal Institute, Burlington, Vt., 1865-67; was rector of churches in Royalton, Jericho, Fairfax, Fairfield, Swanton and Highgate. He made his home in Highgate from 1877 until his death. He took great interest in the welfare of his alma mater; served as trustee, 1857-88; was secretary of the board, 1862-76; acting president, August 12, 1875-October 19, 1876; received the degree of D. D. from the University in 1864.

He met with marked success as a clergyman and was greatly respected and beloved, not only by the members of his church, but also by the people of the communities where he lived; was president of the Standing Committee of the Diocese for twenty-five years and was for several years Dean of the Convention of Burlington; was deputy to the General Convention which met in Philadelphia in 1856. He also met with great success as a teacher, and for several years conducted the "Champlain Hall" in Highgate, Vt. He took great interest in military matters, served for some time as major in the militia, and for several years was secretary of the Military Convention of Vermont.

He was a fine scholar and an able writer. He published several sermons, A Manual of Family Prayer, An Essay on the Firmament as the work of the Third President Josiah Swett.

Day of Creation; English Grammar, a work which had an extensive sale, also an abridged edition of the same. He published an edition of Thompson's Seasons and Pope's Essays on Man, with notes for the use of schools. He contributed numerous articles to the various periodicals, and left many unpublished poems.

He was twice married: first, December 6, 1843, to Mary Jarvis Campbell, of Windsor, Vt., who died April 6, 1845. One child, Mary Campbell, born December 21, 1844, married John A. Fitch, resides in Brookline, Mass. He was again married, October 30, 1845, to Lucy Miranda Wheeler, of Newport, N. H., who died September 28, 1885. Nine children were born to them: Hannah Sibyl, married Theodore P. Lukens, resides in Pasadena, Cal.; James Wheeler, ('N. U.' '72) died December 31, 1876; Marilla Elizabeth, lives in Cambridge, Mass.; William Plummer, resides in Southern Pines, N.C.; Josiah, resides in New Hartford, Conn.; Hester Miranda, died March 19, 1884; Paul Flynn, resides in Garden City, Long Island; Katherine Healey, died April 2, 1901; Lois Jane, resides in Pasadena, Cal.

COL. CHARLES ALBERT CURTIS, U. S. A., A. M.

Charles A. Curtis, son of Charles Stubbs and Amanda Fitzsallan (Ham) Curtis, was born in Hallowell, Maine, October 4, 1835, and died in Madison, Wis., May 26, 1907. He prepared for college at the Maine State Seminary, and the Yarmouth (Maine) Seminary, and entered the sophomore class of the University in 1858, graduating A. B. in 1861. He was one of the founders of the Reveille (q. v.) in 1860. He was a member of the Α Σ Π Fraternity, and in 1868, revised its "Ritual." In 1861, he passed the examinations at Bowdoin College, Maine, for the degree of A. B.

On the breaking out of the Civil War, he returned to his home in Maine offered his services to the State; was appointed State drill master with rank of first lieutenant, and performed efficient duty during April-June, 1861, in drilling and instructing volunteers in fifteen towns and cities of the State. On June 17, 1861, he left the state for Virginia, with the Sixth Maine Regiment, as instructor to the field officers of the regiment; took part in every action in which this regiment was engaged to June, 1862 and twice commanded a company in action.

He was appointed in June, 1862, acting assistant adjutant-general on the staff of General W. S. Hancock, with the understanding that he should have the office permanently, should a gentleman to whom it had been previously tendered, decline. He served one month in this position, when the first appointee accepted. He was appointed 2d lieutenant 7th United States Infantry, April 14, 1862, for "extraordinary merit"; was transferred, April 28, 1862, to the 5th United States Infantry, and joined his regiment at Fort Craig, New Mexico, July 6, 1862; was promoted first lieutenant March 30, 1864, and captain by brevet September 27, 1865, "for meritorious services" during the war; served against the Texan forces on the Rio Grande, 1862-65; engaged in the Indian Wars in New Mexico, Arizona, California and Colorado, 1865-69; was in command of camp at Los Valles Grandes, New Mexico, October 3, 1863-June 9, 1864; Fort Reynolds, Col., November 17, 1867-April 1, 1869; was retired from active duty December 15, 1870 for wounds received in line of duty, was given full rank of captain, U. S. A., by special act of Congress in 1899.

Col. Charles Albert Curtis.

He was detailed as professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University in the fall of 1868, and reported for duty April 8, 1869, which position he held until August 12, 1875; served as executive officer from May, 1869 until September of the same year. On August 12, 1875, he resigned his position to accept the professorship of Military Science and Tactics at the St. Augustine College at Benicia, Cal. In July, 1876, he resigned this position and returned to Northfield and resumed the position of professor of Military Science and Tactics. On October 19, 1876, he was elected president of the University, and served until July 1, 1880, when he resigned. He took a deep interest in the welfare of "N. U." During 1869-80, he raised considerable sums of money for the improvement of the University grounds and the completion of "Jackman Hall." He compiled the first book of regulations published by the University, and under his administrations, cadet officers were first regularly and permanently commissioned to office.

He served as professor of military science at the Shattuck School, Fairbault, Minn., 1880-85; East Florida Seminary, Gainesville, Fla., 1885-89; Kenyon Military Academy, Gambier, Ohio, 1889-90; Marmaduke Military Academy, Sweet Springs, Mo.; Howe School, Lima, Ind., for some time. In 1885, he removed to Madison, Wis., where he made his home until his death. In 1898, he was appointed professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Wisconsin, which position he held until his death, meeting with marked success. He was commissioned colonel in the National Guard of Minnesota, September 15, 1884; lieutenant-colonel National Guard of Florida November 25, 1887, and colonel National Guard of Wisconsin, April 6, 1901.

He wrote many stories and historical articles for the St. Nicholas, Wide Awake, Youth's Companion, Harper's Young People, and various other papers. He published one story in book form, Captured by the Navajos, Harper Brothers, New York, 1898. He gave much valuable assistance on the history of Norwich University in 1898. He was a member of the Madison Lodge, No. 5, F. and A. M., of Madison and Chapter R. A. M. of Madison; Wisconsin Historical Society; Wisconsin Society of Sons of the American Revolution, and Vermont Commandery Military Order of Loyal Legion.

He was married May 17, 1866, to Harriette Louise Hughes of Ashland, N. H., who survives him and resides in Ashland. Five children were born to them: Warden Allan, born February 1, 1867, resides in Ashland, N. H.; Lawrence Albert, born April 11, 1872, now captain 22d United States Infantry; George Hughes, born June 30, 1874, died August 7, 1877; Dorothy Hughes, born April 7, 1878, married Wallace Chickering, resides in Chicago, Ill.; Barbara Hilton, born March 23, 1882, married Earl B. Rose, resides in Milwaukee, Wis.

PRESIDENT CHARLES HILDRETH LEWIS, U. S. A., A. M., LL. D.

Charles H. Lewis was born in Alton, Me., August 5, 1837, and died in Camden, Me., December 8, 1906. At an early age, his parents removed to Bangor, Me., where he prepared for college. He entered the University in 1852, and graduated B. S. in 1855; was a member of the "University Regulators," (q. v.) and the A Σ II Fraternity; received the degree of A. M. for the University and LL. D. in 1881.

Soon after graduating, he went West and engaged in government surveying and civil engineering in Minnesota and Iowa until the breaking out of the Civil War. He then hastened directly to Washington, where he conferred with Hannibal Hamlin, a personal acquaintance, and although but twenty-four years of age, he was commissioned a captain of the 16th United States Infantry, August 5, 1861. He served with marked distinction in the battles of Shiloh, Stone River, Murfreesboro, Missionary Ridge and Chickamauga. He took part in General Sherman's famous "March to the Sea" and was with General Thomas at the battle of Nashville. His distinguished service during the Civil War won for him the rank of brevet lieutenant-colonel, U. S. A. for meritorious service during the war. He resigned his commission, July 28, 1864.

He engaged in mining engineering in Colorado for two years. He then went to New York and turned his attention to financial affairs. He was for twelve years a member of the New York Stock Exchange, where he gained considerable prominence. He then engaged in real estate business and held very valuable property along the coast of Maine. In 1882, he purchased Cape Jellison, on the coast of Maine, which embraced some eight hundred acres of picturesque table land situated at the head of Penobscot Bay and at the entrance of Penobscot river. Later in 1887, he established "Sorrento" on Frenchman's Bay, one of the finest watering places on the Atlantic coast. From this time up to the time of his death, he was engaged chiefly in developing this property, and also property secured at Camden, Me.

In 1880, the University finances were at a very low ebb. Colonel Lewis generously came forward at that critical time and consented to assume the financial control of the Institution and guaranteed all expenses. His generous offer was joyfully accepted by the trustees and in recognition of what he proposed to do, they changed the name of the University to Lewis College. He was made president of the University, December 21, 1880, and held this office until June 30, 1892. Every alumnus and friend of the University must remember with gratitude the generosity of Colonel Lewis at this time. There is no question but what the University would have been obliged to close its doors, if it had not been for Colonel Lewis' assistance. Colonel Lewis and his advisors made many improvements in the University curriculum. They greatly strengthened the course of instruction. In 1883, Colonel Lewis began to meet with business losses, and was unable to defray the expenses of the University. In 1884, by action of the State Legislature, the name of the Institution was changed back to Norwich University.

He married Orianna Pendleton of Belfast, Me. Of this marriage four children are now living: Lenora, wife of Dr. James Jackson of Boston; Dexter Wadleigh, "N. U." '90; Kenneth Hastings, "N. U.," '96; Edison, Harvard University, '02, resides in New York.

ACTING PRESIDENT GEORGE NICHOLS, M. D., LL. D.

George Nichols, the only son of James and Annise Aiken (Dole) Nichols, was born in Northfield, Vt., April 17, 1827, and died there April 28, 1907. His father was a carpenter and builder, and was also a manufacturer of doors, sash, and blinds in which business the son assisted, when not attending the district school. In 1840, he clerked in a country store; and in the winter of 1841 and 1842, he taught district school in his native town. During 1842-49, he was principally engaged in studying, teaching, and fitting for college at the Newbury (Vt.) Seminary. In 1848, he commenced the study of medicine with the late Samuel W. Thayer, Jr., M. D., and graduated at the Vermont Medical College in Woodstock, in 1851, with the honors of his class.

He was appointed demonstrator of Anatomy; but did not take the position, preferring to practice his profession, which he at once entered upon in company with Doctor Thayer. In 1854, he combined the drug business with his practice. In 1862, he was commissioned surgeon of the 13th Vermont Infantry and served the full term of his enlistment. From 1848 until 1853, he was State librarian, declining further elections. In 1865, he was appointed secretary of state by Governor J. Gregory Smith, to fill the vacancy then existing, and was elected in the fall of the same year, and held that office from term to term until 1884. During his early tenure of this office, the library was so reorganized as to make it one of the most important and comprehensive departments of our State government. In 1870, he was president of the last constitutional convention of the State, at which the present biennial system of government was adopted. In 1872, he was a delegate to the National Republican Convention, and was made a member of the National Republican Committee in that year. In 1872, he was elected a member of the Republican State Committee of which he was either secretary or chairman until 1884, when he declined its further honors. In 1876, Dr. Nichols was appointed messenger to carry the vote of the Electoral College of the State to Washington. His supervision of the Presidential campaigns of 1872, 1876, and 1880, gave eminently satisfactory results. He was elected clerk and treasurer of the Vermont & Canada R. R. Co., and served from 1856 until 1859. In 1872, he was made chairman of the Board of Commissioners for receiving subscriptions to the capital stock of the Central Vermont, R. R.; and upon its reorganization in 1873, he was elected clerk. In 1883, he was elected clerk of the Consolidated R. R. Co., of Vermont, holding these offices until 1888, when he declined further elections. In 1868, he was elected director, and in 1875, president of the Northfield National Bank.

He was elected a trustee of the Northfield Institution in 1865, and was a director of the Northfield Graded School for twelve years; was a member of the board of trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute at Burlington, Vt. and for several years was one of the Executive Committee of said board. He took an active interest in the removal of the University to Northfield in 1866. He served as trustee, August 1, 1866-1907; treasurer, August 1, 1866 to June 30, 1875; vice president and acting president, 1885 to July, 1895. He gave liberally to the construction of the first University building, and generously aided the University by his time and money. In 1881, the University conferred upon him the degree of LL. D. He was honored by his townsmen in repeated elections to offices of trust and responsibility. Doctor Nichols was a man of marked ability, of an engaging and attractive personality. He lived a full strong life, achieving marked success in every undertaking. He was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church, and was identified with the councils of the diocese and of his home parish. He was a member of DeWitt Clinton Lodge, F. and A. M., of Northfield, and the Mt. Zion Commandery of Knights Templar; also an honorary member of the A Σ Π Fraternity.

He was married in 1852, to Ellen Maria, daughter of Abijah Blake, of Vergennes, Vt.; Mrs. Nichols died September 8, 1906. Two children were born to them: Alice Margaret, and a son, both of whom died in infancy.

PRESIDENT ALLAN DANVERS BROWN, LL.D.

Rev. Allan D. Brown, LL. D., commander, United States Navy, retired, eldest child of Joshua Lawrence and Diana (Osborne) Brown, was born on September 2, 1843, in Batavia, N. Y., and died April 3, 1904, at Waynesville, N. C.

His preliminary education was in public and private schools, one of them being the noted rectory school in Hamden, Conn., a military institution. He was appointed a midshipman from New York and entered the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, September 23, 1860, graduating, May 28, 1863. He was immediately appointed ensign, his first duty being on board the sloop-of-war, Iroquois, then on blockade at Wilmington. In the spring, the ship was ordered to foreign waters and made an extended cruise to the English Channel, the South American coast, the Cape of Good Hope and the Dutch East Indies, returning in October, 1865, having covered 45,000 miles in fifteen months. After a short leave, he was ordered to the Rhode Island, the flagship of the Home and West India stations, having been promoted to master in the meantime. A year later, he received his promotion to lieutenant and was assigned as executive officer of the Unadilla, a gunboat destined for the China station. During this cruise, the gunboat captured a Chinese pirate junk, and also visited Bangkok, Siam, the first American man-of-war that had ever entered the river Menam.

Returning to the United States by way of San Francisco in 1869, he was detailed for duty at the Naval Academy, where he served as instructor in Mathematics for three years, having been promoted to lieutenant-commander in 1868. At the expiration of this tour of duty, he was ordered as navigating officer of the Omaha, serving on her a year on the Pacific station, and was then transferred to the flagship Pensacola. In September, 1873, he was on shore duty at Panama for two weeks, protecting the property of the Pacific Mail Steamship and Panama Railroad companies, with a detachment of officers and men from the ship, during one of the periodic revolutions which were then the plague of that country. As a result of this enforced sojourn on shore, the greater part of the officers and men were stricken with Panama fever of a severe type, Lieutenant Commander Brown among the number. He served out his full cruise, however, and was relieved from duty while the ship was at Honolulu, where she had conveyed King Kalakaua after his visit to this country.

In 1876, he was a second time ordered to the Naval Academy, where he was assigned as instructor in the department of Astronomy, Navigation and Surveying. He remained four years, one of which he was at the head of the department. He received his promotion to commander during this time. In the summer of 1880, he was on duty at Torpedo Station in Newport, and in January, 1882, was placed in command of the ship, Jamestown, then at Mare Island Navy Yard. His instructions were to bring his ship to Newport, where she was to be put in the training service. The passage from the Golden Gate to Block Island was made in 112 days, without sighting land in the meantime. For a year and a half he was engaged in training apprentices, receiving an official letter of thanks from the Bureau of Equipment upon his detachment in 1884. After a short time at the Naval Home in Philadelphia, he was ordered to the Naval Observatory in Washington as assistant superintendent. He remained there for four years and during a portion of the time was the superintendent. His special charge was the nautical department, including the time service. He was instrumental in the establishment of time balls at several points along the Atlantic coast and in the extension of the time service to the railroads of the country, being assigned to duty as the representative of the observatory at the General Time Convention in New York in 1887. He was the first to urge upon the Western Union Telegraph company the adoption of the present system of distributing time. In the fall of 1888, a recent seizure of American Property in Hayti caused the president to direct a man-of-war to be sent at once to Port au Prince. The only vessel available was the historic Kearsarge, then at the navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H. Commander Brown was selected for this important service and was given private orders to hasten the preparation of the ship for duty. Thanks to the activity of his executive officer, Lieut. Charles E. Belknap, Commander Brown was enabled to leave the navy yard wharf on the fourth day after the officers and men had reported, three years' stores and a full supply of coal having been taken on board. Eight days after the hoisting of the pennant, the ship was at Hampton Roads. In the meantime another vessel, cruising in the West Indies, had been caught by cable and sent to Hayti, and the orders of the Kearage were modified, she being directed to take a relief crew to the Tallapoosa then at Montevideo. This commission was accomplished and the Kearsarge returned to Hampton Roads in April, 1889.

During this trip the malaria, which had given Commander Brown the Panama fever fifteen years before, and which had been intensified by four years' service in Washington, showed its effects most plainly and by the advice of his surgeon, he applied for a medical survey. He was detached from his command and granted a year's leave of absence for recuperative purposes. A year later, he was ordered before the retiring Board, who recommended a year's sick leave, but with little avail, for in 1891, he was found still, "incapacitated for duty" and was recommended for retirement. He then went to Brattleboro to reside permanently, as his physicians advised the New England climate.

He became a candidate for holy orders in the Protestant Episcopal Church soon after his return to Brattleboro and he was ordained deacon by Bishop Bissell of the diocese of Vermont, November 30, 1892, in St. Michael's church, Brattleboro. He was assigned to Christ Church, Guilford, under the rector of St. Michael's, where he remained until June, 1894, when he volunteered to take charge of the mission in Barre, Vt. He remained in Barre two years, during which time the numbers of the mission were largely increased, and by the help of Bishop Hall and the diocese at large, part of a handsome stone church erected. In June, 1895, he was advanced to the priesthood in St. Paul's Church, Burlington by Bishop Hall.

On November 10, 1896, he was elected president of the University and was inaugurated December, 8th. He served until January, 1904, when owing to failing health, he resigned the office.

President Brown proved an efficient head of the University and did much to advance the prosperity of the Institution. His administration was one of the most successful in the history of the University, since the service of Captain Partridge and Colonel Ransom. During his term of office the Dewey Hall was secured; much needed land was purchased; the military department was more fully recognized by the United States War Department; the University was recognized by the State as its Military College; steps were taken to secure the Alumni Hall; General Dodge was interested to secure aid from Mr. Carnegie; practically much of the prosperity of the University since 1904 was made possible by the self sacrifice and hard work of President Brown.

He contributed several professional articles, to Harper's Magazine, and was a frequent contributor to the editorial pages of the Army and Navy Journal. He won the gold medal of the United States Naval Institute in the prize essay competition of 1879 on Naval Education, and prepared a paper for the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia on The Electrical Distribution of Time, which was republished in The Scientific American, as a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject.

He was twice married: first, December 29, 1863, to Gertrude, daughter of Hon. Royal and Laura (Keyes) Tyler of Brattleboro, who died September 18, 1877. Two children were born to them: Helen Tyler, born in Brattleboro, Vt., and now resides in that town; Ethel Ruth, born in Annapolis, Md., married Rev. George J. Sutherland, resides in Oxford, Conn. He was again married October 20, 1880, to Adeline Shannon, daughter of the Hon. William Shannon and Elizabeth (Irwin) Pierce. Mrs. Brown resides in Brattleboro. One child was born to them: William Pierce, "N. U." '07, who graduated from the United States Naval Academy in June, 1910, and after a short leave of absence was assigned to duty on board the U. S. S., Vermont.

PRESIDENT CHARLES HORACE SPOONER, A. M., LL. D.

Charles H. Spooner, son of Stephen Alden and Sophia Lois (Hull) Spooner, was born in Charlestown, N. H., August 6, 1858. He attended the schools of his town, and entered Norwich in 1874, graduating B. S. in 1878 and A. B. in 1879; Norwich gave him his Masters degree in 1897, and the University of Vermont LL. D. in 1904; was a corporal, sergeant, 2d lieutenant and captain in the corps of cadets. He was distinguished at the University for his ability in Mathematics and in the Classical Languages. He is a member of the ΘX Fraternity.

Soon after graduating, he was appointed commandant and instructor in English in St. Augustine College, Benicia, Cal. In 1881, having resigned this position and returned to Vermont, he organized the military department of the Vermont Academy at Saxtons River and became instructor of Mathematics and Physics at that school. Eight years later, he accepted the principalship of a grammar school in Fitchburg, Mass. From 1890 to 1904, he was in charge of the second year class of the Manual Training School of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. Elected president of Norwich University in 1904, during the intervening seven years, he has in that position, been fortunate enough to see the enrollment increased 76 percent in number; the faculty doubled; the buildings more than doubled; the permanent endowment multiplied by ten; the income from the State by two and a half; fortunate also in finding year by year the college winning good name and fame in an ever widening circle.

He has taken an active interest in military matters, serving as major in the National Guard of California, while commandant of St. Augustine College; also as major and inspector of rifle practice, Brigade Staff Vermont Militia, 1887-1889; served as aide on the staff of the Grand Marshal at the Dewey Parade in St. Louis, May 3, 1899; was chief of the Educational division at the dedication of the Louisiana Purchase Expedition, St. Louis, in April, 1903. With a deep interest in educational matters, he is an earnest advocate of Manual Training in the schools of the country. He shared in the civic reform movement, which secured a new charter for the public schools of St. Louis. He joined the Episcopal Church in 1880, and the I. O. O. F. in 1890; and is a member of the Northfield Conversational Club; the American Geographic Society; also various forestry, peace and arbitration associations.

He was married in Gardiner, Me., November 15, 1882, to Inez Grant Davis, daughter of David G. and Martha E. (Shields) Davis. Mrs. Spooner is a graduate of Lombard University, Galesburg, Ill. One child has been born to them: James Davis, born October 11, 1898.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

COL. FRANCIS VOLTAIRE RANDALL, A. M.

Francis V. Randall, son of Gurdon R. and Laura Scott (Warner) Randall, was born in Braintree, Vt., February 13, 1824, and died in Northfield, Vt., March 1, 1885. He was buried in Elmwood Cemetery, Northfield, where a granite shaft, set up by his comrades in arms in memory of their beloved leader, marks his resting place.

In 1828, his parents removed to Northfield, where he attended the district school in the winter, working on a farm with his father, and at carpentry in the summer. Later he attended for a few terms the academy at Chester, Vt., and taught school winters. He studied law with the Hon. Heman Carpenter of Northfield, 1845-48, and was admitted to the Washington County bar in November, 1848; practiced his profession in Northfield, 1848-57; Roxbury, Vt., 1857-60; Montpelier, Vt., 1860-61, 1865-76. In his profession, he was eminently successful, being one of the ablest advocates before juries at the Washington County bar.

He was commissioned captain, Company F, 2d Vermont Infantry, May 20, 1861; served in the battles of Bull Run, Lees Mills, Williamsburg, Goldings Farm, Savage Station, White Oak Swamp, and Crampton's Gap. He resigned September 9, 1862, to return to Vermont to assist in enrolling more troops for the service. He took an active part in raising the 13th Vermont Infantry and was commissioned its colonel, September 24, 1862. In this work, he was assisted by W. D. Munson, '54, later lieutenant-colonel of the regiment, and by George Nichols, M. D., later surgeon of the regiment. At the battle of Gettysburg, July 1-4, 1863, the 13th Vermont led by its gallant colonel, rendered conspicuous service and gained for themselves an immortal name in the war history of our country for the gallantry displayed in this decisive battle. Notable, during the second day's fight, Colonel Randall, at the request of General Hancock, recaptured a battery that had been lost to the Confederates and turned with terrible effect upon our own men who had been unable to silence it. For their gallantry in this heroic charge, General Hancock personally and on the field, complimented Colonel Randall and his command. To this regiment belongs the distinction of repulsing General Pickett's famous charge in this battle. He was mustered out of service, July 21, 1863, and began immediately to recruit the 17th Vermont Volunteers; was commissioned its colonel, February 10, 1864; served with distinction in the battles of the Wilderness, the siege of Petersburg and the capture of Lee's army, and finally was mustered out of the service, July 14, 1865.

Returning to Montpelier, Colonel Randall spent several years in looking after business interests that had been more or less neglected and of a miscellaneous sort; and from 1876 to 1883, he engaged in farming in Brookfield, Vt. In 1884, he bought the old hotel at Northfield Center, later used as the "N. U." mess hall, where he lived until his death. In politics he was, before the war, a Democrat; after it, a Republican. He was postmaster of Northfield, 1853-57. He represented Roxbury in the House of Representatives, from 1857 to 1859, and was state's attorney of Washington County in 1859.

He took great interest in the welfare of "N. U." serving as vice-president from 1883 until his death and as trustee, 1882-89; received from the University the honorary degree of A. M. He was always ready to give of his time and means to serve the University; gave assistance in securing the State aid in 1884. He once said of "N. U.": "To see her future permanent and secure would be glory enough for me if my whole life's work besides were blotted out." He was a member of DeWitt Clinton Lodge, F. and A. M., of Northfield, and the G. A. R.; honorary member $\theta \chi$ Fraternity.

He was twice married: first, July 3, 1846, to Caroline Elizabeth Andrus of Connecticut. Three children were born to them: Charles Woodbridge, born May 14, 1847, died October 20, 1868; Francis Voltaire, born April 3, 1851, resides in northern Vermont; Zella Valeria, born in 1854, and died in infancy. He was married the second time, December 6, 1863, to Fanny Gertrude Colby of South New Market, N. H., who died in Ellendale, N. D., October 26, 1893. Three children were born to them: Phil Sheridan, "N. U.," '86; Gurdon Colby, born December 21, 1867, died July 20, 1868; Luther Volney, born March 4, 1875, and resides in Flaxton, N. D.

VICE-PRESIDENT CHARLES DOLE, B. S., A. M.

Charles Dole, son of Christopher Sergeant and Harriet (Howes) Dole, was born in Northfield, Vt., October 22, 1843. He prepared for college at the Northfield Institution, and entered the University in September, 1866, graduating B. S. in 1869; he also studied in addition to the regular work of the Scientific department, the Latin, and the literature of the Classical Course; was adjutant of the corps of cadets; editor of the Reveille; member of the $\theta \chi$ Fraternity; received the degree of A. M. in course in 1872. During his senior year and in 1869-70, he was instructor in Mathematics and Latin. In 1871, he was advanced to the professorship of History, Rhetoric, Logic and Belles-Lettres, which position he held until 1886, when he resigned to engage in business. During the absence of President Curtis in California, 1875-76, he served as executive officer and commandant of cadets; served as secretary of the faculty, 1881-86; was president of the Alumni Association, 1892-94. He has served as vice president of the University from 1895 to date and acting president during 1895-96; served as alumni member of the Board of Trustees 1894-1899, and trustee, 1899 to date. He established the Mess hall in January 1871, which he conducted until 1882, 1898-1903. In January 1873, when the University finances were at a low ebb, he assumed all the financial responsibilities of the University and for two years met all obligations, which resulted in a heavy loss to him. Professor Dole has been a constant friend of "N. U." giving liberally of his time and money to advance the welfare of the University.

He has taken an active interest in Agricultural matters, and for several years has engaged extensively in farming; was editor, Vermont Farmer, 1885-89. In 1898, he became identified with the slate industry of Northfield; was president of the Dole, Brill Black Slate Co., later the Vermont Black Slate Co., 1898-99.

He is a Republican in politics and has taken an active part in the affairs of his town; represented Northfield in the House of Representatives 1888-90; was superintendent of schools, 1874-82. He is an active member of the Universalist church; was chairman of the church convention for Vermont and the Province of Quebec; a member of DeWitt Clinton Lodge, No. 15, F. and A. M.; the I. O. G. T.; and the Northfield Conversational Club.

He has been twice married: first, August 2, 1870, to Mary Ione Gilman, of Paw Paw, Mich., who died October 17, 1887. Four children were born to them: Carl Gilman, "N. U." '90; Harry Raymond, "N. U." '96; Anna May, born December 4, 1872, died April 9, 1874; Lena Harriet, born April 2, 1875, died March 22, 1882. He was again married July 3, 1893, to Mrs. Clara (Austin) McClearn of Northfield, sister of Charles E. Austin, '87. Three children have been born to them: Clara Marion, born December 16, 1894; Charles Paul, born September 4, 1896; Ralph Austin, born October 21, 1903.

Vice-President Charles Dole.

CLARENCE LOCKWOOD HATHAWAY, M. S., M. D., PH. D.

Clarence L. Hathaway, son of Tilnus and Lois (Blake) Hathaway, was born in Calais, Vt., November 19, 1846. He prepared for college at the Barre (Vt.) Academy, and at Newbury (Vt.) Seminary and entered the University in September, 1866, graduating B. S. in 1869; was a corporal, sergeant, and 1st lieutenant in the corps of cadets; member of the $\Theta \chi$ Fraternity; received the degrees of M. S. in course in 1874 and Ph. D. in 1883. He was elected vice-president of the University, December 31, 1880, and served until June 20, 1883. The duties of president largely fell to him which he performed with great fidelity. He gave much time and labor, without compensation, that his Alma Mater might live. He was elected trustee of the University December 3, 1880, and served until June 24, 1891.

He took special work at Harvard University, 1869-70; and in the latter year, he was appointed assistant astronomer to the Argentine National Astronomical Observatory located at Cordore, Argentine Republic, S. A. The Records of his observations and computations during three years are embodied in the

Dr. Clarence Lockwood Hathaway.

Uranometria Argentina with atlas, which gives the brightness and position of every fixed star down to the seventh magnitude within one hundred degrees of the South Pole. This Uranometria, published in Buenos Ayres in 1879 in Spanish and English, is today the recognized authority in Sidereal astronomy of the Austral heavens. He resigned this position in 1874.

He graduated M. D. in 1876 from the College of Medicine and Surgery, Cincinnati, and the following year he attended the medical department of the Columbia University, N. Y. He practiced medicine in Boston, Mass., until 1884, when on account of health, he accepted the post of surgeon and paymaster for the United States and Brazil Steamship Co., and made several voyages to Rio de Janeiro.

Owing to professional and business engagements, he has travelled extensively in South and Central America. His writings have appeared in periodicals of both hemispheres; and he is said to have been among the first to advocate reciprocity between American Republics to promote extension of commercial relations. Personal financial interests and the care of an aged mother caused him to retire temporarily from medical practice. He is a member of Green Mountain Lodge, No. 68, F. and A. M., of Cabot, Vt. His residence is No. 53 Fremont Street, Winthrop, Mass.

CHAPTER III.

SKETCHES OF PROFESSORS, 1866-1911.

institute in Towanda. He graduated from the Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn., in 1869, and was in July of that year ordained to the ministry by Bishop Stevens of Pennsylvania. His first charge was in Allentown, Pa., together with the mission at Catasauqua. He was assistant minister of Trinity church, Pottsville, Pa., 1871-72. He taught Greek, Latin, and Vocal Culture in the State Normal School, Bloomsburg, Pa., 1872-73. He was again assistant minister at Trinity Church, Pottsville, Pa., 1873-74. He was headmaster of a church school for boys at Fox Chase, Philadelphia, 1874-76.

In 1877, he became rector of St. Mary's church, Northfield, Vt., where he officiated until early in 1883. He was appointed professor of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy in "N. U." in 1878, and besides his work in that department, he taught Latin and Spanish. He was chaplain of "N. U." for some years. He wrote for the Reveille a biographical sketch of Prof. Alonzo Jackman, LL. D., and another for Hemenway's Gazeteer of Vermont. His sermon, preached in memory of Professor Jackman, was issued in pamphlet form.

At the invitation of Bishop Huntington, he went to Syracuse in 1883 to do mission work in central New York, and he also took charge for some months at a time of Grace church, and of Trinity church, Syracuse, and of Trinity church, Seneca Falls, N. Y. In 1886, he accepted a call to St. John's church, Williamstown, Mass. Besides his ministry there of seven years, he taught Hebrew in Williams College, 1887-1894. He took temporary charge during the rector's absence of St. John's church, Bangor, Me., 1896-1897.

He was rector of St. Paul's Church, Peabody, Mass., 1897-98, which he resigned on account of illness, and a long period of ill health followed. He removed to Rockport, Mass., in 1900, where he has since resided. He has been for the past five years pastor of St. Mary's church.

He is a member of the Essex Institute of Salem, Mass., also of the Cape Ann Scientific and Literary Association, Gloucester, Mass., and is an associate member of the O. W. Wallace Post No. 106 G. A. R. of Rockport. He was president for four years of the Rockport Shakespear's Club, and is an honorary member of the Northfield Conversational Club.

He has at intervals produced a few lyrics. One of his odes, written by request, was sung to special music at the Semi-Centennial of New Bedford. Some of his hymns, contributed to periodicals, have found their way into musical hymnals. He is included in the list of hymn writers in the Dictionary of Hymnology, edited by Dr. John Julian, and published in England.

On July 20, 1890, he was married to Katherine, youngest daughter of Charles S. Nichols of Salem, Mass. She died March 3, 1898.

CAPT. LYLE FREDERICK BELLINGER, U. S. N., C. E., M. S.

Lyle F. Bellinger, son of Lorentz Milton and Margaret (Ashley) Bellinger, was born in Mohawk, N. Y. January 10, 1867. He prepared for college in the Iliion (N. Y.) High School and Academy, class of 1882, and graduated C. E. from Cornell University in 1887.

PROF. EDWARD BOURNS, A. M., LL. D.

Edward Bourns was born in Dublin, Ireland, October 29, 1801, and died at Norwich, Vt., July 14, 1871. In the fall of 1823, he entered Trinity College, Dublin, an Institution classed with Oxford and Cambridge for its scholarly training and classical curriculum. For some reason, he did not pursue his course consecutively, but left college, to act as tutor in a private family, and did not take his degree of B. A. until July 9, 1833.

After graduating, he engaged as reviewer and writer for the well known publishing firm, Thomas Gregg & Son, doing business in Cheapside, London. He engaged later as a teacher in an English family. In August, 1837, he came to this country and opened an English and Classical School in Philadelphia, where he became acquainted with the Rev. William DeLaney, D. D., provost of the Pennsylvania University. After the consecration of Dr. DeLaney as bishop of Western New York, and his removal to Geneva, N. Y., in 1838, Doctor Bourns was attracted to Geneva. In 1839, he received the degree of M. A. from Hobart College, then presided over by Rev. Benjamin Hale, D. D., and the same year was elected adjunct professor of the Latin and Greek Languages in that Institution. In 1841, the same college conferred upon him the degree of LL. D.; also in the same year, on the seventh of March, he was ordained deacon in the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the following year, March 12, he was ordained priest.

In 1845, Doctor Bourns resigned his professorship in Hobart College and went to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he continued to teach the ancient languages until he was elected in September, 1850, to the presidency of Norwich University. He continued to hold this office until 1865, and from 1850 until a few days before his death, discharged the duties of professor of Latin and Greek.

During a connection of twenty years with the University, as president and professor of Ancient Languages, Doctor Edward Bourns endeared himself to the members of as many classes through his eminent attainments, his kindly sympathy, and his delicate, incisive wit. It became a saying in the corps, witnessed to by generations of cadets, that no one could enter the doctor's rooms on the briefest of errands and not depart wiser than he came. The manly, honest, and truthful cadet, who got into trouble through exuberance of spirits, always felt when undergoing the penalties inflicted for his infractions of discipline that he had the respect and sympathy of the disciplinarian; while the unmanly fellow who attempted to cover or palliate his faults by a falsehood, would find "Old Teddy" severe in the extreme, and would carry through life a memory of that severe look of contempt which would knot the doctor's brow as he gave a deprecatory shrug to his broad shoulders. Possessed of the national wit of his nation, but without its brogue, for his English was of the purest diction, he courted that display of it in others; but it is not on record that a cadet ever acquired an advantage over the doctor in an exchange of witticism. His was a wit, as before remarked, that was delicate and incisive; but it never gave pain and it never failed to provoke a smile, even from its victim.

Dr. Bourns was no ordinary man. The intrinsic force, native shrewdness and genial kindness of his nature made him generally respected and admired by many. He was a man of learning and acumen. At Dublin University he won honorable prizes and in his library were books marked with the printed seal of his Alma Mater recording the occasions upon which he won them in scholastic competitions. Rev. Dr. Malcolm Douglass, from whose paper on Doctor Bourns, contributed to a Vermont publication, some portions of this sketch are copied says "He earned by long practice, a right to teach, as it were, ex cathedra. He was a voluminous, careful and exhaustive reader, yet never at any time in his sermons or addresses, in conversations or in discussions, did he ever betray the consequence of the pedant or assume to be other than a sincere inquirer after truth. * * * No man could discern better than he the weak points of a coxcomb, or a hypocrite; and no man could with keener humor and presence of mind foil the advances of intrusive persons and turn the tables upon them. Yet with a facility of extempore speech, and a native readiness that but for his diffidence and physical hindrances would have placed him among our foremost public speakers, and with a keen and humorous mother-wit, he guarded the portals of his speech with the greatest care from hasty, unbecoming or careless words."

He had never belonged to a military organization; but somehow he had acquired the swinging stride of the modern soldier, and in his best days at Norwich it was a pleasant and invigorating sight to see him take a constitutional across the plain. When standing erect, his height was six feet, two inches, with a framework—a breadth of shoulders, a development of muscle, and massive loins—in equal proportion. His physical courage was perfect. A modest talk or two, in which he told the writer of "town and gown" encounters at old Trinity, where he bore "a bit of a stick," reveals him as a "broth of a boy."

Dr. Bourns may be said, like an old time knight, to have literally "died in his harness." He climbed the hill to the University for the last time in the winter, 1870-71. Grown feeble on account of a lifelong asthma, much earlier than his stalwart physique had promised, he was obliged to pause frequently in his ascents before reaching the crest. When at last, he reluctantly acknowledged that he could no longer make the climb to his classes, they were sent to his place of residence. Captain Curtis once proposed to relieve him of them, but he replied, "If you take my classes from me, I shall die." And so the cadets continued to fill the doctor's sitting room and recite to him, as he lay upon a couch and drilled them with all the exactness and critical refinement that had distinguished him through healthier days. When the last recitation was held and dismissed he rapidly declined, and after midnight of Commencement Day, July 14, 1871, he died.

PROF. PHILANDER DRURY BRADFORD, M. D., A. M.

Philander D. Bradford, son of John and Lucy (Brooks) Bradford, was born in Randolph, Vt., April 11, 1811 and died in Northfield, Vt., July 16, 1892. In 1815, upon the death of his mother, he went to live with relatives in Alstead, N. H., and in 1826, he returned to Randolph, Vt., where he attended the famous Orange County Grammar School at the Center. He studied medicine with his brother Dr. Austin Bradford of Randolph, 1831-32; graduated M. D., from the Vermont Medical College, Woodstock, in 1834; received the degree of A. M. from the University of Vermont in 1850, and the same degree from "N. U.," in 1882.

He began the practice of his profession in Braintree, Vt., in 1834, and subsequently practiced in Randolph and Bethel. In 1854, he located in Northfield, Vt., where he made his home until his death. He continued his practice in Northfield until 1890. He was professor of Physiology and Pathology at the Castleton, Vt., Medical College, 1857-62. He served as surgeon of the 5th Vermont Infantry, December 3, 1862 until March 1, 1863, when he resigned.

He was at first a "Free Soiler" in politics and later a Republican and held many offices; represented Randolph in the House of Representatives in 1853-54; State senator in 1862 and 1863; served as commissioner of insane in 1854 and 1855.

He took an active interest in the University, serving as trustee from 1867 until his death. He was a member of the committee, which secured the location of the University in Northfield and was especially active in the interests of the Institution during the dark days of 1880-84; was professor of the natural Sciences at "N. PROF. HIRAM ADOLPHUS CUTTING, A. M., M. D., PH. D.

Hiram A. Cutting, son of Stephen Church and Eliza (Reed) Cutting, was born in Concord, Vt., December 23, 1832, and died in Lunenburg, April 18, 1892. At an early age, he displayed a remarkable fondness for the study of Zoology, and while a mere boy made a fine collection of natural objects. In 1846, he began the study of medicine.

He taught school several winters, beginning in 1848, meeting with marked success; and later, he studied surveying and followed that work for some time. For several years, he worked as an itinerant photographer during the summer months, teaching school winters and studying at irregular intervals at the St. Johnsbury (Vt.) Academy. He engaged in the dry goods business in company with an uncle in St. Johnsbury, Vt., from 1854 until 1866. In this last year he bought his uncle's share in the business, and continued it until 1870.

In 1866, his fine geological collection numbering 2,500 specimens was destroyed by a fire; but with his characteristic energy, he began another collection which on his death numbered 30,000 specimens. He also possessed a fine library of 16,000 volumes. His fine geological collection is owned by the town of Bethlehem, N. H. During the Civil War, he was appointed an examining surgeon and for some years after the war, did an extensive business as claim agent. He studied medicine privately with Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., (q. v.) in 1870, and, upon his recommendation, Dartmouth College conferred upon him the degree of M. D. in the same year. He served as instructor of Natural Sciences at Montpelier Seminary for some time; served as curator of the Vermont State Cabinet of Natural History, 1871-72; was State geologist, 1872-80; secretary of the Vermont Board of Agriculture, 1881-82, and fish commissioner in 1881. He was appointed lecturer of Natural Sciences at "N. U." in 1880, and served until 1886. In 1868, the University conferred upon him the degree of A. M. and Ph. D. in 1879. He practiced medicine in Lunenburg, Vt., from 1885 until his death. He was State delegate to the International Forestry Congress in 1885; represented the State at the Agricultural Congress in St. Paul, Minn., in 1886. He made several inventions in photography and several valuable discoveries in Geology.

He contributed many articles to the newspapers and magazines. His published works are: Mining in Vermont, 1872; Meteorological Tables and Climatology of Vermont, 1877; Microscopic Revelations, 1878; Farm Pests, Including Insects, Fungi and Animalcules, 1879; Notes on Building Stones; Notes on Plant Growth, 1880; Lectures on Plants, Fertilization, Insects, Forestry, Farm Homes, 1882; Scientific Lectures, 1884; Farm Lectures, 1884; Reports of Geologist and Curator of State Cabinet, 1874-80; Biennial Reports of the Fish Commission of Vermont; Vermont Agricultural Reports. He was a popular lecturer; among his subjects were: God in History; The Bible, its History and Scientific Relations.

Prof. Hiram Adolphus Cutting

He was a member of many literary, historical and medical societies, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science; American Association of Microscopy; Essex Institute of Mass.; Vermont Medical Society; Vermont Historical Society.

He was married at Lunenburg, Vt., February 3, 1856, to Miranda Ellen Haskell, a native of Lenoxville, Canada, who died March 3, 1886, no children.

PROF. HENRI LOUIS DELESCLUZE, A. M.

Henri L. Delescluze was born in France about 1815. He received his education in that country and came to the United States about 1861. He served as professor of the Modern Languages; Linear, Architectural and Landscape Drawing at "N. U.", 1864-67. He was a fine scholar and could speak Latin fluently. When he first came to the University, he was obliged to speak Latin with President Bourns, as his fluent speaking of English was limited and his pronunciation of the French language was not readily understood. He compromised on the Latin Language. He had received a fine education in an art school and possessed considerable ability as an artist.

Mr. William R. Cutler, '68, writes: "He was a good teacher, and I remember the gentle manner in which in my first lesson, he found out how little I knew about French. As I look back to that time now, I can appreciate how considerate he tried to be of my feelings, if I had any, which I am free to admit did not then affect me in the ignorance and unconcern of youth. I have since met less considerate-examiners, who might have taken a lesson from him in proper courtesy and good breeding; to say nothing of Christian charity.

MAJOR HENRY WALTER HOVEY, U. S. A., A. M.

Henry W. Hovey, son of John Gorham and Mary Ann (Ripley) Hovey, was born in Vasselboro, Maine, September 1, 1852, and died of heart failure in Northfield, Vt., November 15, 1908. He attended school in Boston, and removed to New York city in 1866. At an early age, he showed a strong military inclination. He served in the second company of the famous 7th Regiment, N. Y., N. G., New York city from 1869 until November 26, 1880, when he received an appointment as 2d lieutenant, 24th United States Infantry; was promoted 1st lieutenant, same regiment, May 1888; served as regimental quartermaster, April 18, 1891-March 9, 1894 and regimental adjutant, March 9, 1894-April 17, 1895.

He served as professor of Military Science and Tactics and Commandant at the University, September, 1895-June, 1898; December, 1898-March 13, 1899; September 1902-July, 1906. On the breaking out of the Spanish-American War in 1898, he was ordered into active service. He assisted Maj. Stephen P. Jocelyn, U. S. A., in mustering the First Vermont Volunteers, May and June, 1898; was in command of Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., and had charge of the construction work there, June 4-October, 1898; assisted Major Jocelyn in mustering out the First Vermont Volunteers, October-December, 1898.

He joined his regiment, the 24th United States Infantry at Fort Douglas, Utah, March 1899; but soon after reaching the post, the regiment was ordered to the Philippine Islands. He, with his company "L", was ordered to southeastern Alaska, where he was given command of the district, with headquarters at Camp Dyea. This camp being destroyed by forest fires, July 18, 1899, he removed to Skagway, where he remained until ordered back to the University in September, 1902. He was promoted major, August 14, 1903; was ordered to the Philippine Islands, July 1906, arriving there in September; was in command of Cebu, Department of Visayas, September, 1906-November, 1907, excepting a few weeks, when he was in command of the regiment at Camp Bumpus, Leyte. He was retired from active duty, November 7, 1907 for "disability in line of duty" and returned to the United States in January, 1908. He soon returned to Northfield, where he resided until his death.

Immediately upon his assuming the position of commandant at the University, he began to work with vigor, not only for the improvement of his department, but also for the advancement of the interests of the University. The needs of the University were constantly on his mind, and he took every opportunity possible to gain friends for the institution. His loyalty to the University was remarkable. A full account of his work at the University is given in Volume I, chapter VII. In 1907, the University conferred upon him the degree of A. M.

He was a member of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States; Kane Lodge, No. 454, F. and A. M., of New York city; King Solomon Chapter, No. 7, R. A. M., Montpelier, Vt.; Montpelier Council, No. 4, R. & S. M., Montpelier, Vt.; Mt. Zion Commandery, No. 9, K. PROF. WILLIAM LINE.

Prof. William Line, son of William and Isabell (Richmond) Line, was born in Kendle, England, December 9, 1845, and died in Northfield, Vt., March 28, 1895; was buried in the Elmwood Cemetery at Northfield. He received his education at the Blue Coat, the Friends and Steeton Hall schools, England, and came to this country in 1865.

He enlisted January 24, 1867, in the 9th United States Infantry; was transferred to the United States Signal Corps and promoted sergeant. He was ordered in 1872 to the "Summit Station" on Mt. Washington as one of the observers at that station, where he remained five years, including the severe winter months. He was in charge of the station at Toledo, Ohio, 1877-79. He established the station at Little Rock, Arkansas, and in the same year, he was ordered to Bismark, North Dakota and given charge of the construction, operation and maintenance of the North Western Division of the United States telegraph lines. He was in charge of the Milwaukee station, 1880-83, station at Cleveland, Ohio, 1883-87; had charge of the weather service of South Carolina with headquarters at Columbia, 1887-88. He came to Northfield, July 23, 1888, and had charge of the station at Norwich University, July 23, 1888-March 1895, serving during this time as professor of Meterology.

Prof. William Line

He was a member of the Episcopal Church; honorary member of the Board of Trade of Cleveland, Ohio, and of the A Z H Fraternity of the University. He was a fine scholar and an efficient officer in the United States Weather service. He was greatly interested in art and although never receiving any instruction, painted many pictures, which show that he had remarkable talent.

He was married in Boston, Mass., July 15, 1874, to Agnes Oliver Thompson, who survives him and resides in New York city. Two children were born to them: Isabell and Agnes Oliver Thompson.

CAPTAIN EPHRAIM WILLIAMS, U. S. A., A. M.

Ephraim Williams, son of Ephraim and Rebecca (Jackson) Williams, was born in Deerfield, Mass., August 25, 1837, and died there, unmarried, November 4, 1902. He prepared for college at the Deerfield Academy, and at the private school of a Mr. Davies in Middletown, Conn. He entered Williams College in September, 1859, and remained only one year, being obliged to give up his college course owing to sickness.

In August, 1862, he enlisted in the 27th Massachusetts Infantry; served in North Carolina and Virginia. On April 18, 1864, he was commissioned 2d lieutenant in the 1st United States Volunteer Infantry; was promoted 1st lieutenant in July 1864; served in the Northwest and on the Kansas frontier, taking part in many engagements with the Indians. On February 23, 1866, he was commissioned 2d lieutenant in the 5th United States Infantry; was promoted 1st lieutenant July 28, 1866, serving for some time in the Southwest.

In September, 1867, the command of sixty men, in which he was serving was attacked near Pawnee, Fort Kansas by four hundred Cheyennes. After a severe fight, the Indians were defeated; but in the engagement Williams was severely wounded and lost a leg. He was brevetted captain U. S. A., September 23, 1867, "for coolness and gallantry, and good conduct" in this battle. He was retired from active service, April 3, 1869.

He was appointed instructor of Latin and Greek Languages at the University in 1870, and upon the death of Professor Bourns, in 1871, became the professor of these subjects, holding the position until his resignation in 1874. He also served as inspector of the corps of cadets from 1870 until 1874. After his resignation from the University, he lived in retirement, spending his summer at his old home in Deerfield, and his winters in St. Augustine, Fla. He served as trustee of Dickinson Academy of Deerfield from 1895 until his death.

He was a fine student and an able instructor. In 1873, he received the degree of A. M. from "N. U." and from Williams College. In 1878, the latter Institution conferred upon him the degree of A. B. as for 1863.

ARMORER JAMES EVANS.

James Evans, son of David and Margaret (Erwin) Evans, was born in Ebbu Vale, Monmouthshire, South Wales, June 26, 1833, and died in Northfield, January 8, 1904. He attended the public schools of his native town and in 1860 came to this country, landing in New York city, June 29.

He was employed as a pedler in the iron regions of Pennsylvania until 1861, when he enlisted in Company E, 41st Ohio Volunteers. He was with his company in the battles of Shiloh, Corinth, Perrysville, Wildcat, Stone's River, McMenville and Chickamauga. He was taken a prisoner in the last battle, September 20, 1863, while aiding a wounded comrade from the field, and was confined in various prisons until December 1864, when he was exchanged. He then enlisted in the 5th United States Infantry in the company commanded by Capt. Charles A. Curtis, U. S. A., '61, and served with him on "The Plains."

Armorer James Evans.

He came to Northfield on Captain Curtis' solicitation in 1869, and was appointed armorer and janitor, a position he held until 1901, when failing health forced him to give up work. He was a brave and efficient soldier and was especially commended by Captain Curtis for his faithful work. He was known to the older alumni of "N. U." as "Jimmie" and to the younger men as "Uncle Jim". He was loved by all the cadets and it may be stated without disparagement to those in authority that "Uncle Jim" often had more influence with the boys than the faculty; and his influence did much to preserve discipline, during the dark days of the University's existence, 1869-90. In fact, there was nothing that a cadet would not do, when "Uncle Jim" made the request. He was a member of the Episcopal Church; G. A. R., and past commander of William H. Boynton Post, No. 94; I. O. O. F.

He was married January 1, 1871 to Mary Anne Sinott of Hamilton, Canada, who survives him and resides in Northfield. Four children were born to them: Charles J. C., "N. U." '92; Wilhelmina Ripley, married H. W. Orser, "N. U." '02, resides in Northfield; George Douglass, "N. U." '98; Hattie now Mrs. J. Wallace O'Grady, resides in Chihauha, Mexico.

MAJOR EDWARD HARWOOD CATLIN, U. S. A.

Edward H. Catlin, son of Benjamin Rush and Mary Elizabeth (Morrill) Catlin, was born in Meriden, N. H., October 18, 1858. He prepared for college at the Kimball Union Academy, Meriden, N. H., and entered the United States Military Academy, August 25, 1876, graduating June 11, 1880; also graduated from the Artillery School at Fort Monroe, Va., May 1, 1884.

He was commissioned 2d lieutenant, United States Artillery upon graduation and was assigned October 2, 1880 to Battery G., Second Regiment, then stationed at Fort Brown, Texas; was promoted 1st lieutenant, November 4, 1886, captain, February 2, 1899; was retired as major, September 7, 1905, for disability incident to the service. He performed garrison duty at various posts, including five years with light batteries in Kansas. He served with the Army of Occupation in Cuba from January 1, 1899 to January 1, 1902. He was detailed as commandant and professor of Military Science and Tactics at Norwich University in March, 1887, and served until March, 1890. He held a similar position at Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, from December 10, 1910 to August 1, 1911.

He was married in Wilmot, N. H., August 25, 1881, to Lucy Baldwin, a native of Providence, R. I. Six children have been born to them: Evelyn Esta, born June 18, 1882, married Rev. C. Groezinger, resides in Rowley, Mass.; Anna May, born January 25, 1884, died December 24, 1892; Marion Frances, born November 11, 1889; Harwood Baldwin, born October 20, 1891; George Sumner, born October 14, 1896; Charles Edward, born June 19, 1899. CHAPTER IV.

SKETCHES OF ALUMNI AND PAST CADETS, 1867-1911.

CLASS OF 1867.

LIEUT. JAMES EDWIN BATCHELDER, U. S. A., C. E.

James E. Batchelder was born in Highgate, Vt., November 12, 1847, and died in Montana, March 3, 1888. He prepared for college under the tuition of his father and at the Episcopal Institution, Burlington, Vt.

He entered the University in 1862 and remained until December 18, 1863, when he enlisted in Co. E, 5th Vermont Infantry; was wounded, May 12, 1864; was discharged, September 22, 1864, to accept an appointment to the United States Military Academy, at West Point. He graduated in June, 1868 and was commissioned a 2d lieutenant, 2d United States Cavalry, June 15, 1868; was promoted 1st lieutenant, May 4, 1870; served at Fort D. A. Russell, Washington; resigned his commission, December 4, 1871.

In December of the same year, he came to the University as professor of French, Descriptive Geometry, Drawing, and assistant professor of Military Science, which position he held until June 25, 1873. He was assistant engineer on railway construction in Montana until his death, which was caused by an explosion.

He was married in 1871, to Frances E. Cady, of Northfield, who died December 31, 1875. Two children were born to them: Leonard and Francis Gowdy.

SETH HENRY BENSON, B. S.

Seth H. Benson was born in Blackstone, Mass., July 6, 1847. He attended the schools of his town and entered the University in 1864, and graduated B. S. in 1867; was a drill sergeant and lieutenant in the corps of cadets; member of the ΔΣΠ Fraternity. He was a cadet at the United States Military Academy, 1867-69. Since this last date, he has engaged in farming in Blackstone, Mass.

COL. HARLAN PAGE DAVIDSON, A. M.

Harlan P. Davidson, son of Samuel and Lydia (Jackman) Davidson, was born in Hookset, N. H., September 15th, 1838. About 1840, his parents removed to Colebrook, N. H., where he attended the public schools and the Academy. His father having procured about 300 acres of land, mostly forest, the subject of this sketch spent most of his minority in farming. In the meantime, he also learned the stone mason's trade from his father. After seven years of age, his education was limited to a few weeks during winter in a country school. In 1860 he was injured by an accident which incapacitated him from following his trade. He then resolved to obtain a college education, and in September, 1864, he entered the Scientific department of the University and remained until October, 1865. He also studied Latin and Greek as extras. During his fitting course and also afterwards in college, he was obliged to work to pay his entire expenses. He was a member of the A Σ Π Fraternity and the Athenian Society. In 1892 the University, in recognition of his work as an educator, conferred upon him the degree of A. M. In 1871, Lafayette College, Pennsylvania, conferred upon him the same degree.

In October, 1865, he accepted a temporary position as commandant of the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire, Conn. On account of the removal of the University from Norwich to Northfield in 1866, he did not return to the University to complete his course. He was principal of the Chestnut Level, (Pa.) Academy from 1866 to June, 1868; a private school at Phoenixville, Pa., September, 1868-June, 1870; a high school and superintendent of schools at Somerville, N. J., from 1870 to June, 1872; the Collegiate Institute and the Business College, Salem, N. J., from September, 1872 to June, 1884.

Col. Harlan Page Davidson.

He edited a newspaper devoted to social and political reform in Jersey City, N. J., from 1884 to the fall of 1885; was principal of the Leland & Gray Academy, Vt., from December, 1885 to June, 1886; was commandant of the Morgan Park Military Academy, Illinois, from September, 1886 to June, 1887 and superintendent of the same from September 1887 to June, 1888. In the fall of 1888, he purchased Highland Hall at Highland Park, Ill., north of Chicago, and founded the Northwestern Military Academy, which he has conducted to date. In 1892, the Academy was incorporated and since this date, he has been its president. Soon after the opening of the school, the buildings were burned and he lost all of his property; but with great perseverance, the buildings were rebuilt much better than before. He soon placed the Academy in a prosperous condition, and it is now one of the best military institutions in the country. He has been president of the Northwestern Summer Naval School since its beginning in 1902; was for some years president of the Sheridan Road Publishing Company, and now the owner of it.

He was an ardent Republican from 1860 until the fall of 1872, when he became dissatisfied with the attitude of the party in legalizing the liquor traffic by the license system. From 1872 to 1878, he was allied to no particular party, but during those years and since, he has worked vigorously against the liquor interests and in favor of political reforms. He has been a Prohibitionist in politics since 1878 and has held several positions; was elected an alderman of Highland Park three successive terms. Was a candidate for Congress from the Seventh Illinois District in 1900; was Prohibition candidate for Presidential elector in 1904. He was commissioned a colonel in the Illinois

National guard in 1890 and appointed commander of the Northwestern Military Academy Post, which position he still holds. During most of his years in Salem, N. J., he founded and conducted the Qui Vire in the cause of Temperance, and largely through the influence of this paper his county became the banner Prohibition county of the State.

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church; was a member of the Good Templar Society during his residence in Pennsylvania, and of the Sons of Temperance in New Jersey, serving for some time as Grand Worthy Patriarch. He has been a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science from its beginning, and also the American Institute of Civics; is a member of the National Geographic Society, the American Forestry Association and of the National Municipal League.

He was married May 16th, 1866 to Adelaide Sherman Lord, a native of Hamden, Conn. Two children have been born to them: Alice Sherman, born August 30th, 1867, resides in Highland Park, Ill. Royal Page, born October 8, 1870, is now commandant of the Northwestern Military Academy, and also its secretary and treasurer.

MYRON ROBERT HURLBUT, B. S.

Myron R. Hurlbut, son of Hiram Lewis and Emeline Adelia (McGowan) Hurlbut was born in Grand Isle, Vt., in July, 1842. He prepared for college in the Beekmantown, N. Y. High School and the New Hampton Institute at Fairfax, Vt. He entered the University in 1863 and graduated B. S. in 1867. He was adjutant of the corps of cadets during the spring term of his senior year. He wrote several poems of merit, one of which My Alma Mater is included in the Norwich songs.

He was in clerical work in New York city during 1867-70; went to St. Albans in 1870 and was employed in the freight and paymasters departments of the Central Vermont R. R. until 1899, when he retired to the old family homestead in Grand Isle where he died, December 13, 1903. He served for some years with "Ransom Guard", V. N. G., of St. Albans.

He was married at Burlington, Vt., November 29, 1894, to Maud Eva Dow, of Grand Isle, who survives him and resides in Lowell, Mass.; no children.

Myron Robert Hurlbut.

FRANCIS MARION GOWDY, B. S.

Francis M. Gowdy, was born in Melrose, Conn., October 3, 1846, and died there about 1890. He entered the University from Broad Brook, Conn., in 1864, and graduated B. S. in 1867; was a first sergeant in the corps of cadets; valedictorian; member of the θX Fraternity. He engaged in business in Melrose, Conn., for several years; also served as postmaster of that town.

He married Delia Jane Cady of Northfield, Vt., who survives him and resides in Fitchburg, Mass. One child, Helen, died September 19, 1886.

HON. CHARLES MARSEILLES, A. M.

Charles Marseilles, son of Peter and Eliza (Gilpin) Marseilles, was born in Philadelphia, Pa., July 19, 1846. He attended the schools of his city, the Freeland Seminary in Montgomery County, Pa., 1861-62, and the Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., 1862-63. In September, 1863, he entered the University remaining until 1865; was a member of the $A \Sigma H$ Fraternity. The University in recognition of his work as an editor conferred upon him in 1898, the degrees of A. B. and A. M., as for 1867.

Hon. Charles Marseilles.

He was a salesman for Ticknor & Fields, the noted book publishers of Boston from 1865 until 1867, when he purchased the News Letter of Exeter, N. H., a half century old weekly, of neutral tint politically. He infused new life into the paper, so that it shortly became the model weekly of New England, its neutral position being changed for one of strong advocacy of the principles of the Republican party, soon taking a leading place among the papers of the State. For twelve years the News Letter was conducted under Mr. Marseilles' personal supervision, when the death of his father having put him in possession of an enlarged capital, he went to New York and purchased the Daily Freeman and the Weekly Journal, published in Kingston, the shire town of Ulster County, a longtime Democratic stronghold. The same energy and tact, which had characterized the News Letter was felt in the new purchases, and at the first election following the transfer of the journals, a Republican county treasurer was elected, for the first time in many years; two years later led by Marseilles in the Freeman and the Journal, the Republicans captured the county, which was held by them until the Democratic landslide in 1892.

In 1892, he retired from active labor and removed to Exeter, N. H., where he has made his home to date. He is a member of several literary and historical societies. He possesses the finest private library in New Hampshire.

He was married October 5, 1869, to Annie Moses Leavitt of Exeter, N. H., who died March 2, 1904; no children.

CHARLES STOREY WHEELWRIGHT, C. E.

Charles S. Wheelwright, son of George William and Hannah (Giddings) Wheelwright, was born in Roxbury, Mass., January 5, 1847. He attended the public schools of Roxbury and Belmont, Mass., the Chauncey Hall School Boston, Mass 1861-62; Lawrence Academy, Groton, Mass., 1862-63. He entered the University in 1863, where he remained until June 11, 1864, leaving to enlist in Company G, 60th Massachusetts Infantry; served with his company until November 30, 1864. The University at the Commencement of 1909, conferred upon him the degree of B. S. as for 1867 and the degree of C. E. in course.

In December, 1864, he commenced to learn the paper manufacturing business in his father's mill at Wareham. In the spring of 1865, he gave up this work and took a course in Navigation in Comer's Commercial College in Boston with the intention of following the sea; after a few months' study he changed his plans and returned to the Wareham mills. He was transferred in the spring of 1866, to the Leominster mills owned by his father; and in the summer of 1867, was given the superintendency of the mill. He became a partner January 5, 1868 in the firm of George W. Wheelwright & Sons and was given the management of all the mills and the construction work of the company; in 1874, he was made sales agent for the company. In 1874, he withdrew from the firm and became a partner of his father-in-law under the firm name of F. H. Richmond and Co., manufacturers and dealers in paper and contractors for the entire output of paper mills; superintended the construction of the mills erected by this company until 1890 when he withdrew from the firm. He is interested in the George Wheelwright Paper Co. which was organized in 1881 on the death of his father, to take over the paper interests owned by the family.

In June, 1882, he was one of a committee of four, appointed by a syndicate to visit Sweden to investigate the new process (sulphite) for the reduction of wood to paper pulp. As a result of their investigation the Richmond Paper Co., a corporation in which he was a director and prime mover was organized in 1883 with a cash capital of $800,000, for the purpose of building a pulp and paper mill to work out this process. He was the first to introduce the sulphite method in this country, and after many costly experiments and the invention of new machinery by Mr. Wheelwright, the process was made successful in the Richmond plant. He was the inventor and the first to put into successful operation the apparatus for the recovery of sulphurous gases escaping during the process of cooking.

In 1897, he organized the Wheelwright Filler & Mfg. Co., for the manufacture of an apparatus for making crystallized sulphate of lime from plaster of Paris for use in filling paper and cotton cloth. Since 1900, he has made many inventions for the treating of pulp and the reduction of garbage and sewage. In 1902, he organized and became president and manager of the American Extractor Company of Providence, owners of the "Wheelwright Hot Water Reduction Process," for caring for garbage and the waste of cities. Many garbage reduction plants using this process have been constructed throughout the country, notably the plant of the New Bedford Extractor Co., of New Bedford, Mass. In 1909, he organized and became president and manager of the International Continuous Filter Press Company, which does a general engineering and construction business.

He was married October 14, 1869 at Providence, R. I. to Anna Augusta Richmond. They have seven children: Elsie Tyler, now Mrs. Charles G. King; Franklin Richmond, Sarah Elizabeth, Charles Keith, Helen, and Mary Schermerhorn.

He suffered much during his imprisonment, and was taken to the United States General hospital at Annapolis, Md. After a six month's sickness in hospitals in Annapolis and David's Island, N. Y., he joined his regiment at Vicksburg, Miss. May 25, 1863; was in command of his company during the investment of that city, serving in his brother's brigade in the 6th Division of the 17th Army corps, being wounded June 15, 1863; was stationed for some time at Natchez, Miss., which was under the command of General Ransom; was stationed at Vicksburg during the winter 1863-64. In February, 1864, he took part in an expedition up the Yazoo river, successfully engaging the enemy at Sartoria on February 4th, and at Liverpool Heights, February 6th. On this expedition immense stores of cotton and provisions were captured. The Confederates attacked the command at Yazoo River, but after several hours of fighting were defeated. He was stationed at Yazoo City for some time, engaging in skirmishes at Ross and Richardson. His regiment soon marched to Vicksburg, where it remained in camp until May, 1864; served with his company on a raid east of Vicksburg, taking part in engagements at Mechanicsburg, Black River Bridge, Vaughan's Station and Benton, Miss. In June, 1864, he took part in the battle of Clinton, Miss. with General Forrest's Cavalry. His regiment soon returned to Vicksburg, where on July 6, 1864, he resigned his commission, owing to impaired health.

He then went to New York city, where he remained until October, 1864. Through the kindness of General Dodge, '51, he was appointed a rodman on the Union Pacific R. R., reporting at Omaha on November 1, 1865. He continued with the Union Pacific R. R., until December, 1865, when he went to Norwich, Vt., and entered the University. He remained at the University until the burning of the old South Barracks (q. v.), on March 14, 1866. In April, 1866, he was appointed assistant engineer on the Union Pacific R. R., where he remained until December, 1866. During his service with the Union Pacific R. R., he participated in many exciting encounters with the Indians. He then returned East. On January 4, 1868, he enlisted in the 3d United States Cavalry; was stationed in New Mexico several months, engaging in many scouting expeditions. On February 25, 1871, he was discharged from the service at Fort Lyon, Col., owing to physical disability. In February, 1873, he was appointed by General Dodge assistant engineer on the Texas Pacific R. R., and was employed on the surveys from Dallas to Fort Worth, Texas. In the summer of the same year, he was taken sick with intermittent fever, while engaged on the survey of the road through the Sabine swamp lands. After several weeks' sickness he went to Fort Niagara, N. Y. In 1875, he removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where he resided until January 12, 1887. He was admitted to the National Military Home at Leavenworth, Kan., January 15, the same year. On October 3, 1892, he became a member of the Illinois Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, at Quincy, Ill., where he has resided to date.

JAMES PIERCE CALDWELL.

James Pierce Caldwell.

James P. Caldwell, son of James and Ann Rosette (Pierce) Caldwell, was born in Northfield, Vt., September 28, 1850, and died unmarried, in Chelsea, Mass., December 22, 1873; was buried in Lunenburg, Vt. He prepared for college at the Northfield High School and entered the University in 1866 and remained two years; was a member of the A Σ II Fraternity. He graduated from Bryant and Stratton's Business College.

He engaged in the wheelwright business with Albert Chase in Northfield, Vt., 1870-72. He is survived by his mother and a sister, Martha Anna Caldwell, now living in Walpole, N. H.

HON. WILLIAM HENRY HUNT.

William H. Hunt, son of George C. and Julia Pierpont (Smith) Hunt, and nephew of Hon. Gregory Smith, was born in St. Albans, Vt., February 17, 1850, and died there, unmarried, April 9, 1895. He prepared for college in the St. Albans public schools and entered the University in 1865, and remained nearly three years; was a member of the A Σ II Fraternity. From 1869 to 1873, he was engaged in engineering on the Northern Pacific Railroad. In 1873, he became assistant to his father, who was paymaster of the Central Vermont Railroad, and succeeded him on his death in 1876.

He held various positions of trust in the municipal government. He was trustee of the village, 1890-92; president of the board of village trustee, 1892-93; was town representative in 1892. Although he made no pretence of being an orator, his ability as an organizer and a director of legislative work soon became apparent. His aid was eagerly sought by friends and opponents of important measures. He was one of the leaders of the opposition which killed the weekly payment bill after one of the hardest fights of the session. Near the close of the session, he was appointed by Governor Fuller one of the trustees of the Vermont Asylum for the Insane. The new asylum building at Waterbury was but partially completed; and during the next two years, he gave much time to the affairs of the institution. His marked success in legislative affairs in 1892, contributed to his election to the Senate in the fall of 1894. He served as chairman of the general committee of the Senate from the start. Against great odds, he carried through both Senate and House an appropriation of $150,000 for the completion of the asylum at Waterbury. It was the largest appropriation made by the State since the war and few believed it would pass. His speech in its favor in the Senate, while unmarked by oratorical effects, carried such convictions that it was stamped as the speech of the session.

Hon. William Henry Hunt.

In 1892, he re-organized the St. Albans Messenger and largely to his management, the subsequent growth and prosperity of the paper were due. He was one of the most prominent Masons in Vermont, having attained the 33d degree. He served as Master of Englesby Lodge for one term.

SYLVESTER MORRIS PENNOCK.

Sylvester M. Pennock, son of Cyril Pennock, '23, and Sarah (Wetherbee) Pennock, was born in Norwich, Vermont, December 26, 1851. He attended the schools of his town and entered the University in 1864, remaining two years.

He located in Milwaukee, Wis., in 1870, and engaged in the fruit business until 1886. In 1874, he was severely injured while playing baseball, and never fully recovered. He contracted tuberculosis and, hoping a change of climate would prove beneficial, went to San Diego, Cal., in November, 1886. He rapidly grew worse and died there December 4, 1886; was buried in Milwaukee, Wis.

He was survived by a widow; no children.

FRANK PIERCE CURRIER.

Frank P. Currier, son of John Langdon and Mary Anne (Ladd) Currier, was born in Holyoke, Mass., October 8, 1852, and died, unmarried in Boston, Mass., November 18, 1870. In 1857, his parents removed to Norwich, Vt., where he attended the public schools. He entered the University in the spring of 1865 and remained until March, 1866, when the University buildings burned.

He was a reporter on the Granite State Free Press, Lebanon, N. H., 1867-70, and represented his paper at the Peace Jubilee in Boston in 1869. He was for a few months, in 1870, in the employ of Rockwell & Churchill, Boston.

He gave great promise of a brilliant career in journalism. We quote from an obituary published by the Granite State Free Press. "He was a remarkably fine writer for one of his years * * * * * His reports published in our papers we think would not suffer in comparison with those of almost any of the country press." He was a member of the Methodist Church of Lebanon, N. H.

PROF. ADRIAN SCOTT, M. D., A. M., Ph. D.

Adrian Scott, son of Ellison and Ann Maria (Daniels) Scott, was born in Blackstone, Mass., April 23, 1850, and died of apoplexy in Northfield, Vt., December 11, 1905; was buried in Blackstone, Mass. He prepared for college at the Blackstone High School, graduating in 1868; and on September 15, he entered the Civil Engineering Department of the University. He also took the classical languages. He soon displayed remarkable ability not only in his mathematical work, but also in the classics. In 1870, through the advice of Dr. Bourns, he gave up the Civil Engineering course to make the study of languages his specialty, and in September of that year, entered the junior class of Brown University. He passed the first two years work with such high marks, that he was complimented by the examining board for his scholarship, and the classical department of the University was fully recognized at Brown University. He graduated A. B. from Brown University, with high rank in 1872. He was a member of the ΑΣΠ Fraternity at "N. U."

He was instructor at the Chippaqua Mountain Institute, New York, 1872-73; principal, Blackstone High School, 1873-74; assistant professor of Latin and Greek, "N. U.," 1874-75. During 1875-76, he studied medicine in Boston at an institution organized under the laws of Massachusetts, but now defunct, receiving the degree of M. D., in 1876. He practiced the profession in Blackstone until 1878, when owing to defective eyesight he gave up the profession. During 1878-91, he served as superintendent of schools of Blackstone, and during this time, he took post graduate work at Brown University, receiving the degree of A. M. in 1891. He served as instructor of German at the Brown University, 1891-94. During this time, he continued his post graduate studies, making a specialty of the Germanic and Sanscrit Languages, and received the degree of Ph. D. in 1894. In the last year, he was appointed associate professor of Germanic Philology and Scandinavian Languages at Brown University, a position he held until 1897, when he retired to the old Scott Homestead, four miles from Blackstone. He visited "N. U." at the Commencement of 1905, and was elected professor of Political and Social Sciences. In September, he came to the University, becoming at once popular with the faculty and students.

Doctor Scott was a remarkable scholar. He was a specialist in Mathematics, the Germanic Languages, and Sanscrit History, Botany and Zoology. He was a thorough scholar in the Sciences, Ethics and Political Economy. During the years 1896-1905, while carrying on his farm in Blackstone, he studied each day four hours, keeping abreast of the times in his favorite subjects. During his busy life as an educator, he had found time to study law and was admitted to the bar; but never practiced this profession. He had one of the largest private libraries in this country on the Germanic Languages. This library he gave to "N. U.," and assisted the librarian in cataloguing about 400 volumes. He possessed great literary ability and might have achieved success along this line, had he so chosen. He wrote many articles on his torical, scientific, and medical subjects, also wrote several novels. One The Detective's Vacation published in the Providence Sunday Journal showed remarkable versatility as a writer.

Prof. Adrian Scott.

were born to them: Malcolm D., born August 20, 1876, resides in Blackstone; Carleton A., "N. CLASS OF 1879.

GEN. EUGENE MERWIN CARR, B. S., LL. B.

Eugene M. Carr, son of Col. Byron Oscar and Mary Elsie (Buck) Carr, was born in Galesburg, Ill., August 30, 1859. He prepared for college in the public schools of Galesburg and the Preparatory department of Knox College, and entered the University from Louisville, Ky., March 27, 1876, graduating B. S. in 1879. He was a corporal, 1st sergeant and 1st lieutenant in the corps of cadets and a member of the θX Fraternity. He entered the junior class of the University of Michigan Law School in 1879 and remained one year. He graduated LL. B. from the Columbia University Law School in 1881; and began the practice of law in Tucson, Arizona in June, 1881, in partnership with Fred W. Gregg, '73 of Northfield.

In June, 1882, he left Arizona and went to Alaska, with a party which crossed the Chilcott Pass; built boats and descended the Yukon River to a point a few miles below the present city of Dawson, where they built cabins and wintered, depending largely on the wild game of the country for their living. This was the first party of white men to cross the coast range of mountains and winter in the interior of Alaska. In February, 1884, he located in Seattle, Washington, resuming the practice of his profession; and in 1885, he formed a partnership with Harold Preston, son of Gen. S. M. Preston, N. U. '45, which continued until February, 1905.

In 1890, he was prosecuting attorney for the district comprising King, Kitsap and Snohomish counties. He was one of the organizers, in 1884, of Company B, National Guard of Washington, and was made its 2nd lieutenant. He was promoted 1st lieutenant; took an active part in quelling the anti-Chinese riots in Seattle in February, 1886, and directly afterwards organized Company E, National Guard of Washington, composed of the most prominent business and professional men of Seattle, who had taken an active part in upholding law and order. He served as its captain until 1890, when he was commissioned colonel and assistant adjutant-general, serving until 1893; was brigadier-general, commanding the National Guard of Washington, 1893-1897.

He went to Alaska in July, 1897, and was extensively engaged in placer mining until September, 1899, when he returned to Seattle and resumed the practice of law. In February, 1905, he went to Fairbanks, Alaska, where he was engaged in the practice of law and mining until August, 1907. He is now practicing law in Seattle.

He is a member of the Knights of Pythias, Military Order Loyal Legion, United States Sons of Veterans, and B. P. O. E.

On February 19, 1890, he married Alice, only daughter of Gen. S. M. Preston, '45.

PROF. JOHN BENJAMIN JOHNSON, A. M., C. E.

John B. Johnson, son of Rodney Martin and Olive (Ripley) Johnson, was born in Montgomery, Vt., January 27, 1858. He was educated in the common schools of his native town, and studied for a time in the State Normal School at Johnson, where he made a specialty of Mathematics. He studied Geometry, Trigonometry, and Surveying by himself, while engaged in farm work, and being desirous of taking civil engineering, he entered the University in September, 1876, graduating as captain and valedictorian in 1879.

Prof. John Benjamin Johnson.

He took the Engineering course, with extra Mathematics, among which was the difficult Bartlett course in Mechanics and Astronomy, and sufficient Latin and Greek to enable him to receive the degree of A. B. on his graduation in 1879. He took high rank in his studies, especially in Mathematics. He was called upon by General Jackman to take the classes in Mathematics, when he was obliged to be absent; and upon his death in February, 1879, he was appointed to teach a number of his subjects, the remainder of the year. At Commencement of 1879, he was chosen instructor in Mathematics; and after one year's service, he was elected professor of that subject. General Jackman considered Cadet Johnson an able mathematician, and expressed a wish to President Curtis that when his own work should be finished, his mantle might fall upon his pupil's shoulders. Professor Johnson occupied this position until 1890, when he gave up the freshman mathematics and took the chair of Mathematics and Civil Engineering, which he held until 1900.

In 1884, the University conferred upon him the degree of A. M. and in 1890 the degree of C. E. He was assistant treasurer of the University for six years; member of the Building Committee of Dodge Hall; trustee of the Alumni Endowment Fund, 1889-1895. He was alumni secretary from 1889 until 1899; president of the association from 1899-1900; alumni trustee of the University 1905 to date;

He was the first to prepare and publish an alumni catalogue.

The alumni and past-cadets of "old N. U." owe much to Professor Johnson, who, in the dark days of her existence from 1879 to 1888, loyally and self-denyingly cast his fortunes with her, and refusing many tempting offers from other institutions, remained and taught at a mere pittance. His resignation caused great regret among the Board of Trustees and the student body. He was not only an eminent mathematician, but a thorough teacher; his constant aim was to have his students thoroughly understand their work and to go into the world fitted to become masters in their chosen profession.

He spent some time in study at Thayer School of Civil Engineering, Dartmouth College and at Harvard University. In 1906, he accepted the chair of Civil Engineering at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, Cal., which position he still retains. In 1900, he removed to Pasadena, Cal., where he has since made his home. He is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

He has been twice married: first, June 19, 1882, to Ila Marsh of Northfield, who died September 8, 1894, in Montgomery, Vt. He was married the second time, July 5, 1899 to Mrs. Alice Mellisa (Gould) Mayo of Gouldsville, Vt. They have one son, Philip Warren, born May 16, 1902.

and Lake Champlain via, Lake St. Francis, and also of the St. Lawrence between Ogdensburg and St. Regis. Mr. Cooley reports that "Mr. Barstow performed these duties with great intelligence and I believe indicated the proper sources for canals in the localities and I was pleased to publish his report in full in the official report of the Commission."

On the breaking out of the Spanish-American War, he offered his services to the country and after passing a rigid three days examination before a board of West Point Engineers, was commissioned 1st lieutenant of Company F, 3d Regiment, United States Engineers. He served continuously with his regiment at Jefferson Barracks, Camp Hamilton, Macon and other points in the South until January 28, 1899, when owing to failing health, he resigned his commission. He then left for his northern home, buoyed up by the hope that Vermont air would soon dissipate his illness.

He was engaged by Col. J. W. Barlow, United States Engineer, in charge of the New York District, to investigate and recommend where the draw-

He was an assistant engineer on the Michigan Central, Canada Atlantic, Chateaugay, and other railroads. He then entered the employ of the United States Government, and had charge of the construction and improvements of the breakwaters at Rouses Point, Plattsburgh, Gordon's Landing, and Burlington Harbor, all on Lake Champlain. He also had charge of extensive work at Whitehall, N. Y., and on the Otter Creek in Vermont.

Upon the unsolicited recommendation of the late Hon. Thomas H. Canfield and Major Smith S. Leach, United States Engineers, under whom Mr. Barstow had served, he was employed by Hon. Lyman E. Cooley, chairman of the United States Deep-Waterways commission, to make a preliminary examination of a canal route between the St. Lawrence river bridges of the Rutland-Canadian railroad should be located, together with their dimensions. He at once began to plan his work, but his disease was soon found to be typhoid fever and it proved to be his fatal illness. During his military career he made good use of his military knowledge gained at Norwich University. His services were especially commended by Col. David DuBoise Gaillard, a West Point engineer, in command of the regiment. He was a member of the $\Sigma \Phi$ Fraternity; the Military Order of the Loyal Legion; Washington Lodge, F., and A. M.; the Ethan Allen and Mohican clubs of Burlington.

He was married May 11, 1886 to Nellie G. Gates, of Burlington, Vt.; no children.

JAMES MICHAEL HOLLAND, B. S., A. M., LL. B.

James M. Holland, son of Timothy and Mary (Hurley) Holland, and half-brother of Timothy Holland, '02, and Daniel A. Holland, '04, and uncle of Arthur Holland, '13, was born in Northfield, Vt., June 20, 1859. He prepared for college at the Northfield High School, and entered the University, March 11, 1880, and graduated B. S. in 1883; was a 2d lieutenant in the corps of cadets; valedictorian, and at one time the only cadet member of the θX Fraternity. He began the study of law in addition to his regular college work in the winter of 1882-83. He was admitted to the bar at Gladwin, Mich., in the fall of 1884. He entered the law school of the University of Michigan in the same year, from which he received the degree of LL. B. in 1885.

He practiced law, and represented the Eastern Banking Company of Boston, Mass., in North Dakota, 1885-87. In 1887, he went to the Pacific coast, and engaged in law, real estate and banking with headquarters at Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, B. C. He established and was the first president of the bank of Sumas, Wash.; was interested in coal lands, and developing same, 1887-95. In 1895, he went to New York city, and has since been interested in real estate and public utilities. He bought and sold hundreds of thousands of acres of land in the West for himself and other parties, and assisted scores of poor men to get homes of their own.

During the past ten years, he has spent part of his summers in Northfield; and has done much to advance the welfare of his native town. He materially assisted in establishing some of its industries; laid out several streets, purchased the principal watershed, and was about putting in a water system in Northfield, when that town voted to build its own water system, and purchased his water holdings. Northfield can thank him for many things, principally its water system, and the Northfield Trust Company which he conceived and assisted in promoting. Mr. Holland is particularly proud of the fact that he has invested large sums of money for many people; and in no case have any of them suffered a loss, but always received handsome profits or high rates of interest.

He has ever had and taken a deep interest in the University; was one of the subscribers, and assisted in establishing the "Alumni Endowment Fund,"

REAR-ADMIRAL CHARLES EDGAR CLARK, U. S. N., M. M. S.

Charles E. Clark, son of James Dayton and Mary (Sexton) Clark, was born in Bradford, Vt., August 10, 1843. He attended the Bradford Academy and on September 29, 1860, was appointed acting midshipman at the U. S. Naval Academy, where he remained until the fall of 1863, when he with his class was detailed for active service in the navy. He was promoted acting ensign, October 21, 1863; master, May 10, 1866; lieutenant, February 21, 1867; lieutenant-commander, March 12, 1868; commander, November 15, 1881; captain, June 21, 1896; rear-admiral, June 16, 1902.

On Nov. 1, 1863, he was assigned to duty on the Ossipee of the West Gulf blockading squadron, serving under Admiral Farragut until the close of the war. He commanded the forward division on his ship at the battle of Mobile, August 5, 1864; also took part in the bombardment of Fort Morgan in the same month. He served on the Vanderbuilt, Pacific squadron, 1865-67; the Suwanee, 1867-68. He witnessed the bombardment of Valparaiso by the Spanish fleet and the battle of Callao in 1868. On July 7, 1868, his ship was wrecked on the northern extremity of Vancouver Island, and he was left in command of a party of sailors on Hope Island, after the remainder of the crew had been taken off by H. M. S. Sparrowhawk. He and his men were later taken off the island by the steamer, New World.

During 1868-69, he served on the receiving ship, Vandalia at Portsmouth, N. H. He was with the North Atlantic squadron in 1867, serving first on the steamer, Seminole and then on the ironclad, Dictator. He was stationed at the Naval Academy during 1870-73, and was in command of the Saratoga on the practice cruise in 1871; served on the monitor, Mahopac, North Atlantic station, 1873-74; on the Hartford, Monocacy, and the Kearsarge, Asiatic Station, 1874-77. He was on duty at the Boston Navy Yard, 1877-79; served at the torpedo instruction station, Newport, R. I., 1879-80; was executive officer of the training ship, New Hampshire, July-December, 1881 and its commander, 1882-83. He was assigned to the U. S. S. Ranger in 1883; and had charge of the survey of the West coast of Mexico and Central America, 1883-86. He was inspector of the Ninth Lighthouse District, with headquarters in Chicago, Ill., 1887-91. He was on ordnance duty at the Mare Island Navy Yard, San Francisco, May, 1891-November, 1893. He commanded the Mohican on the Pacific station and a squadron of six war vessels and two revenue cutters in the Behring Sea to enforce the regulations about sealing, agreed upon by the Paris Tribunal, 1893-94; served on various boards and engaged in court-martial duty, November, 1894-November, 1895; commanded the receiving ship, Independence, 1895-96; was in command of the monitor, Monterey, June, 1896-1899.

On the breaking out of the Spanish-American War, he was in command of the Monterey at San Diego, Cal., and was soon given command of the U. S. S. Oregon, then in Puget Sound. He was ordered to join the Atlantic squadron; there was great need of this powerful battle ship to strengthen the Atlantic squadron; it was a critical period and Captain Clark was ordered to proceed with the greatest speed; no battleship had ever made such a long voyage, without stops and the marine engineers, the world over, doubted the practicability of the order. Captain Clark sailed for the Atlantic Ocean on March 14th and on May 24th, reached Jupiter Inlet, Florida, having covered the distance of 16,764 miles from San Francisco in sixty-six days and deducting time spent at various places along the route, fifty-five days. Captain Clark received warning from time to time as to the danger of meeting Spanish war vessels, but with his characteristic courage and confidence in his men and battleship, he proceeded heroically on his way. This voyage was unprecedented in the world's history and added further renown to the U. S. Navy. Captain Clark joined Admiral Sampson's fleet off Santiago and engaged in bombarding the Spanish batteries. He also landed a party of marines from the Oregon, the first force of Americans to occupy the Cuban territory in this war. On July 3d, Captain Clark with the Oregon took a heroic part in the historic fight with Admiral Cerveras' fleet, as it undertook to escape from the harbor of Santiago. Captain Clark served for some time as chief of Commodore Watson's staff, and later was given a leave of absence.

He visited his native State, where many receptions were given in his honor. On May 1, 1899, at the request of President Brown, a classmate at the Naval Academy, he visited Northfield and assisted in breaking the ground for the Dewey Hall (Vol I, page 202). At the commencement of 1899, the University in recognition of his distinguished services as an officer conferred upon him the degree of Master of Military Science. HON. JOSIAH GROUT, LL. D.

Josiah Grout, son of Josiah and Sophronia (Ayer) Grout, was born in Compton, Canada, May 28, 1841. In 1850, his parents removed to Kirby, Hon. Josiah Grout.

Vt., where he attended the public schools. He also attended the Orleans Liberal Institute, Glover, Vt., and the St. Johnsbury, (Vt.) Academy. In 1898, the University of Vermont conferred upon him the degree of LL. D.; and in 1899, the Norwich University honored him with the same degree. He enlisted in Company I, First Vermont Cavalry, October 2, 1861; was promoted 2d lieutenant, October 21, 1861; 1st lieutenant, April 25, 1862; captain, April 1, 1863. He was severely wounded April 1, 1863; and on October 1st of the same year, he was discharged for disability. He was commissioned captain, Company M, 26th New York Cavalry (Frontier Cavalry), January 1, 1865; was promoted major, March 22, 1865; was mustered out of service, June 27, 1865.

He studied law with his brother, General W. W. Grout, (q. v.) in Barton, Vt., and was admitted to the bar in December, 1865. He practiced his profession in Newport, Vt., 1871-74; Chicago, Ill., 1874-77. He engaged in business in Moline, Ill., 1877-80. In 1880, he returned to Vermont, where he has made his home to date, residing in Newport, and Derby. He has extensively engaged in agricultural and business pursuits from 1880 to date. His farm, "Clydeside" is one of the best in the State. He was one of the first in Vermont to promote the "good roads" improvement, believing that well constructed highways will prove one of the best agents in developing the "New and Greater Vermont."

He has always been a Republican in politics. He was in the U. S. Custom Service at Island Pond, Vt., 1866-69; St. Albans, Vt., 1869-71; Newport, Vt., 1871-74; was supervisor of Rock Island county, Ill., 1878-80. He represented Newport, Vt., in the House of Representatives in 1872 and in 1874, and Derby, Vt., in 1884, 1886, 1888, and 1904, serving as speaker of the House in 1874, 1886, and 1888; was State senator in 1892; was governor of Vermont, 1896-98.

HON. WILLIAM WALLACE GROUT, LL. D.

William W. Grout, son of Josiah and Sophronia (Ayer) Grout, was born in Compton, Canada, May 24, 1836, and died on the Grout farm in Kirby, Vt., October 7, 1902. In 1850, his parents removed to Kirby, Vt. He attended the Orleans Liberal Institute, St. Johnsbury, Vt., and graduated from the Poughkeepsie (N.Y.) Law School. He was admitted to the bar in December 1857, and in the same year, located in Barton, Vt., where he practiced his profession until 1880 and where he made his home until his death.

On the organization of the 15th Vermont Infantry in 1862, he was elected captain of the company, recruited in Barton, Vt., and on September 26, 1862, was commissioned lieutenant-colonel of the regiment. The regiment was assigned to the famous "Vermont Brigade" commanded by General Stannard. Colonel Grout served with his regiment in the first two days' fight at the battle of Gettysburg. He later served at Funkstown and Hagerstown and was mustered out of service with his regiment, August 5, 1863. In the fall of 1864, he was placed by the order of the governor of Vermont in command of the provisional forces, serving on the northern border of Vermont, during the St. Albans raid excitement (q. v.). In 1865, he was commissioned brigadier-general and given command of one of the three brigades organized by the State Legislature and served until 1869.

He was a Republican in politics; served as state's attorney of Orleans county in 1865 and 1866; represented Barton in the House of Representatives in 1868, 1869, 1870, and 1874; was State senator in 1876 and served as president pro tempore of that body. In 1878, he was a candidate for Congress, but was defeated. In 1880, he was elected to the Forty-seventh Congress from the third district and served until 1882, when according to the tenth census, Vermont lost one member and the third district was absorbed by the first and second districts. He was a candidate for re-election from the second district but was defeated by Judge Poland. In 1884, he was again elected to Congress and served until his death. He owned the old homestead in Kirby, Vt., where his grandfather settled in 1799. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge. In 1897, the University conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D.

General Grout's eighteen years' service in the House of Representatives at Washington exceeded the term of service of any other member of that body from Vermont. His service in that body commanded the highest respect. His speeches were able and his influence in shaping legislation good. He felt a deep interest in the welfare of his State and was most attentive to her concerns in whatever form they appeared to him.

He was married in 1860 to Loraine M. Smith of Glover, Vt., who died in 1869. Three children were born to them, all dying in infancy.

HON. FREDERICK HOLBROOK, LL. D.

Frederick Holbrook, son of John and Sarah (Knowlton) Holbrook, and brother of John C. Holbrook, "N. U." '24, was born in East Windsor, Conn., February 15, 1813, and died in Brattleboro, Vt., April 28, 1909. He was the last of the War Governors, and although aged, he was in usually good health until March 7th. Since that date, his vitality had been somewhat weakened. In January he was able to attend the annual meeting of the Vermont Savings Bank, presiding over its deliberation as had been his custom for nearly forty years.

He attended the Berkshire Gymnasium, Pittsfield, Mass., for two years; and later travelled extensively in Europe. In 1833, he returned to Brattleboro, Vt., where his parents had removed from Connecticut.

He engaged extensively in agriculture in Brattleboro for many years. He was a member of the joint committee appointed by the legislature of Vermont in 1849 to enquire into the expediency of recommending the establishment of a National Bureau of Agriculture, and drew up a memorial to the President and Congress, stating in detail the reason for establishing such a bureau. Those who read that memorial to-day will find it contains substantially all the work which the Government has since undertaken in that direction. From the organization of the Vermont State Society in 1850, until the time of his election as governor, he was president of the Society. He wrote extensively for some years, for the agricultural papers of the country.

He was at first a Whig in politics and on the formation of the Republican party joined its ranks; served as a member of the first State convention of the party held in Vermont; was registrar of probate of the Marlboro district for many years; was State senator, 1849-50; governor of Vermont in 1861-63, performing distinguished services for the State during the dark days of the Civil War. One of his most valuable services was the securing in 1862, the location of the United States Military Hospital at Brattleboro on what is now the Valley Fair Grounds. Here many of the Vermont regiments encamped preparatory to their departure South.

In 1899 the University in recognition of his distinguished services for the state of Vermont, conferred upon him the degree of LL. D.

He was married January 13, 1835, to Harriet Goodhue of Brattleboro, who died September 21, 1887.
